COOLIDGE TALKS SAVING WITH BUDGET MAN

MAY COST MORE TO RUN GOVERNMENT

ESTIMATES FOR NEXT YEAR TO GO CONSIDERABLY HIGHER

CONTEMPLATED AN EXPENDITURE OF $3,425,000,000 FOR YEAR

By PAUL R. MALLON
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
Rapid City, S. D., Aug. 13.—Pres. Coolidge talked his pet policy, economy, with Herbert Lord, director of the budget bureau, today.

Lord came out here with estimates for the next year's governmental expenditures which run considerably higher than Mr. Coolidge has indicated that he desired them to go. They would contemplate an expenditure of $3,425,000,000 as compared with Mr. Coolidge's desire to cut expenses to $3,000,000,000 flat and his announcement that he would not go above $3,300,000,000.

Only two items of the budget were made known by Lord. He revealed that the government will provide estimates for carrying forward as soon as possible work on six of eight new light cruisers for the navy. Keels of two already have been laid but only planning work has been done on the other six and there has been some doubt as to whether the administration with its program of stringent curtailment of expenses would provide estimates for the other six. Lord also let it be known the budget would carry $125,000 for initial work to establish municipal airport at Gravelly Point, Washington, D. C.

Whether or not failure of the Geneva disarmament conference has anything to do with the matter Lord did not say. He did declare, however, that the budget bureau had pared off estimates for three proposed submarines for the navy, indicating they will not now be built.

Lord put the whole matter up to Mr. Coolidge this morning. The additional $125,000,000 over Mr. Coolidge's highest figure were added by Lord, he said, because of a plea for dire need in government departments.

Eugene Meyer, chairman of the federal farm loan board, also met with the president regarding the administration's new farm relief bill, which would provide an extensive system of co-operative marketing to aid farmers in withholding crops from market to obtain fair prices.

Young John Coolidge, son of Mr. Coolidge, will arrive today from summer school for a vacation with his parents.

Rapid City, S. D., Aug. 13.—Farm conditions are better than they have been for seven years, Eugene Meyer, chairman of the federal farm loan board declared today.

Meyer said he had made an investigation of the agricultural situation in many states and that while there is a large volume of delinquencies on farm mortgages due to past troubles, "it is hoped and expected that the present favorable outlook for a good grain crop and fair prices, especially for livestock will permit many borrowers to put their loans in good order."

Estimates indicate $1,000,000,000 more will be realized by the agricultural industry this year than last.

Meyer said he did not discuss farm legislation with the president.

COLONEL LINDBERGH ARRIVES IN CHICAGO

Chicago, Aug. 13.—(UP)—Col. Charles Lindbergh, hero of the first trans-oceanic flight, arrived in Chicago—from where he once made his lonely mail flights—at 12:44 P. M., from Grand Rapids, Mich.

He flew over the flag draped "loop" and circled Soldiers' Field, and then headed for the flying field where a reception committee awaited to give him Chicago's greeting.

Lindbergh landed at Maywood scene of his early mail career, at 1:56. He made a perfect landing and was met by the reception committee. About 10,000 persons were at the field.

NICOLA SACCO ON 28TH DAY OF HUNGER STRIKE

DRAW PRISON GARB HANGING LOOSELY ON HIS FRAME

STUBBORNLY RESISTS EFFORTS OF WIFE AND LAWYER TO BREAK FAST

By HENRY MINOTT
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
Boston, Aug. 13.—His drab prison garb hanging loosely, Nicola Sacco, on the 28th day of his hunger strike, today continued stubbornly to ignore the pleas of his wife and lawyers that he break his fast.

Even the implorations of Bartolomeo Vanzetti, his comrade in their remarkable seven-year fight to escape death in the electric chair had failed to move him from his determination to starve as a martyr in the name of justice.

"Barto," as Sacco affectionately calls his friend, has had coffee, milk and beef tea within the last two days as a means of gradually breaking his hunger strike.

Every day finds Mrs. Rose Sacco at the door of her husband's cell, eyeing him through the small hole on the cell front and begging him to take nourishment so he may regain his strength to withstand the impending crisis when his fate finally will be decided.

If Sacco continues his abstinence from food until Wednesday, he will have broken the fasting record which he established while confined to Dedham jail in 1923.

While prison authorities stated forced feeding had not been considered, Attorney Michael Angelo Musmanno of Pittsburgh, member of the defense counsel, said he believed that if Sacco were told such methods were to be used, he would break his fast voluntarily.

Both Mrs. Sacco and Attorney Musmanno planned to visit the condemned man again today and make new attempts to induce Sacco to take nourishment. The lawyer reported that the prisoner was very weak and might soon be forced to remain in bed unless he began taking nourishment.

Sacco's children, Dante, 13, and Inez, 7, have been staying at the homes of friends of the family. They do not see their father.

So far as little Inez is considered, her father might have died before she was born. All her life Sacco has been in prison.

Friends of the cause have sent checks for $25 to Sacco and Vanzetti. Sacco gave his check to his wife while Vanzetti added his to his prison account.

Vanzetti was joyful today over the knowledge that his sister, Luigia, was about to sail from France to be with him at the final crisis. He never expected to see her again. But for a 12-day reprieve, he would have been dead before she could reach this country.

THOS. L. JEFFERSON FACES REAL LIGHTNING IN COURT

Reno, Nev., Aug. 13.—(UP)—Thomas L. Jefferson, noted successor to Frank Bacon as "Lightnin' Bill" Jones in the stage play, "Lightnin'", today occupied the leading role in the Reno divorce court. He filed suit for divorce from his wife, Mrs. Eugenia Paul Jefferson, Montclair, N. J.

The couple has been married 48 years. Jefferson charges his wife objected to his acting as being too ardent and complained of religious differences.

In the play, "Lightnin'", is sued by his wife in the final act, but a reconciliation is effected.

"KING BEN" RESUMES TESTIMONY

LEADER OF HOUSE OF DAVID IS FRESHENED BY NIGHT'S REST

EXPRESSES IGNORANCE OF ALLEGED FORCED MARRIAGES AT COLONY

St. Joseph, Mich., Aug. 13.—(UP)—Apparently freshened somewhat by a night's rest "King Ben" Purnell, leader of the House of David, returned to the witness stand today to testify in defense of the religious colony.

Cross questioning was resumed by George Nicholls, special prosecutor. "I'll go slowly with you today," Nicholls said and the shaggy haired religious leader nodded.

"You have had quite a bit of trouble since the organization of the House of David, haven't you?" Nicholls asked.

"Yes, quite a bit," Purnell replied in a voice that was barely audible.

Purnell denied he had donned a red wig and a "Mother Hubbard" dress to spirit Harriet Bauschke to Chicago away from her mother. The state had contended such was the case.

"I don't remember any such event," Purnell said when the state charges had been read.

He also expressed ignorance of alleged forced marriages at the colony as the state had contended.

St. Joseph, Mich., Aug. 13.—Raising himself on an arm that could barely hold him, "King" Benjamin Purnell today turned on his wife "Queen" Mary, and charged she conspired with Francis Thorpe, an official of the House of David, to secure control of the colony.

Purnell, testifying in the state's dissolution hearing, admitted that certain papers seized in the raid on the Diamond house last November that led to his capture, referred to "Queen" Mary when they said "She continues to walk with the scorpions seeking to cut off my head."

George E. Nichols, chief prosecutor for the state, who is conducting the cross-examination, introduced the documents, asking Purnell to identify them as his own writing.

Purnell at first refused, saying, "At times I do not even know my own writing." Nichols wrought the admission that Purnell was the author.

"Did you have reference to Mary when you wrote 'She even denied the story of Bethel'?" Nichols asked.

"Yes, I did," Purnell replied.

"Was it Mary who had reference to when you wrote 'She continued cutting off my head'?"

"Yes."

"Were you having much trouble with Mary when you wrote these things?"

"Yes, we were having office trouble," Purnell replied.

"How did they try to gain control of the colony?" Nichols asked.

"By starving me—if they could," Purnell replied. "Mary has told me 'I see these vultures continue to feed you'."

"Did they actually starve you?"

"No. My followers were too loyal to permit it," he replied.

Purnell next admitted he had reference to Mary when he wrote, "She is a vulture, an immoral woman and a scorpion."

He insisted, however, that he did not believe there was any "carnal connection between my wife and that scorpion who walked in open rebellion—Francis Thorpe."

Mary, on the stand previously, had denied any conspiracy to usurp the "King" power.

"King Ben" was released from the stand shortly before 10 A. M. He will be recalled to the stand Monday. A number of character witnesses were then called by the defense.

PATIENT GOING THROUGH LIFE 'IN REVERSE'

Meridian, Miss., Aug. 13.—(UP)—A patient from York, Ala., in the local hospital here is going through life "in reverse."

Dr. J. H. Rush, who performed an operation, found the Alabama man's organs were practically all in opposite positions from that of a normal person. The heart and spleen were found on the right side; the liver, gall bladder and appendix were found on the left side; the intestines opened on the left side and the stomach was turned around.

The case is attracting wide attention in medical circles.

LINDBERGH FLIES FORD FLIVVER FINELY

LIFTS DIMINUTIVE CRAFT WITH ONE HAND AND PUTS IT THROUGH STUNTS

PLANE ONLY 22 FEET WIDE AND MOTOR SIZE OF FORD CAR ENGINE

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 13.—(UP)—Henry Ford has paired up as a partner with Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh to stimulate "air mindedness."

Lindbergh induced the billionaire to take his first airplane ride yesterday and then Ford returned the favor by asking Lindbergh for a ride in the finest plane, Lindbergh said, that he had ever seen.

But that was not enough. Ford persuaded Lindbergh to take a flight in an air flivver—a tiny fabric monoplane—the air worthiness of which had never been tested.

Lindbergh was unafraid. Lifting the diminutive craft with one hand he wheeled it to a favorable spot for starting and climbed into the exposed pilot seat.

The plane was only 22 feet wide. The motor was about the size of a Ford automobile engine.

Lindbergh flew it high for a few moments, put it through a series of figure eights, made several rolls, dived, climbed, dived and landed it perfectly. It is that plane Ford hopes to perfect to be the successor to automobiles.

"How does it handle?" Ford asked Lindbergh anxiously when he had landed.

"I like it fine," Lindbergh replied. Ford smiled broadly.

The manufacturer appeared delighted with his first two flights. He displayed no uneasiness as Lindbergh took him aloft in the Spirit of St. Louis for fifteen minutes, or when he later went with Lindbergh and a party of Ford officials for a forty minute flight in a giant three-motored plane.

VOTE DOWN 7 HOUR DAY FOR TYPO UNION

Indianapolis, Ind., Aug. 13.—(UP)—The diamond jubilee convention of the International Typographical union was at an end today after one of the stormiest sessions on record.

The last act of the delegates was to vote down the proposal to approve a seven hour day for members. Although there was considerable discussion on the subject the vote on the unfavorable report of the special committee was overwhelmingly against action at this time.

DAMAGE TO FARMS RUNS TO MILLIONS

IN MISSOURI FLOODED AREA INCLUDES SEVERAL COUNTIES

IN KANSAS A HAIL STORM SWEEPED OVER A LARGE AREA

Kansas City, Mo., Aug. 13.—(UP)—Rain again has brought streams of Missouri, Kansas, Oklahoma and Arkansas out of their banks. Damage to farm property will run into millions, it was estimated today, though no figures were available.

In Missouri, the Osage, the Pomme De Terre and other streams left their banks and were sweeping through a score of counties carrying added destruction to that already suffered in several floods this year.

In Kansas, a hail storm swept over a large area, beating down corn and ruining that crop in several small areas. Rain has left in its wake still more damage in the southeastern part of the state, though it is hoped the damage will be small. Streams of this district, swept by floods several times during the last six months, again are causing alarm in the bottomlands. Flood warnings have been sent out over an extended area. The farmers are getting used to being warned to leave their homes because of danger from the high water.

In Oklahoma and Arkansas, the destruction is relatively small. Only the northern parts of these states will be affected by this latest flood. It was reported, and the water will not do a great deal of damage.

The storms, starting last Sunday and continuing every day, reach north into Nebraska where extensive damage to corn had been done through the week. Rains have been general over that state all week.

No respite was seen from the rains by the local weather bureau today.

WIND STORM AT GREAT BEND, KANS.

Great Bend, Kans., Aug. 13.—A storm swept this vicinity today, doing considerable damage and bringing fresh danger from floods. Holsington, a few miles from here, was reported to have suffered heavy damage from a wind storm there.

Wires to Holsington are down and no confirmation of the reports was available. Several persons were reported injured and it was added there may have been loss of life.

Several persons were reported missing at Holsington and the Rev. J. N. Vernon of Larned, who passed through the town last night, reported the storm was very bad at that time. The minister declared more than eight inches of water had fallen there and the rain was continuing.

Hutchinson reported 2.5 inches of rain there last night and early this morning.

Great Bend, Kans., Aug. 13.—Property damage estimated at more than $20,000 was done at Holsington by a high wind and heavy rain last night and early today, first definite reports received here today said.

Several persons were injured, but there was no loss of life, it was stated. Rain to a depth of seven inches fell at Holsington while a heavy rain was felt generally over this part of the state.

The Arkansas river threatens to overflow its banks and spread destruction over a large area.

Flood warnings have been sent out from the government office at Topeka.

PRAISES EFFECTS OF 4-H CLUB WORK IN STATE

Mankato, Minn., Aug. 13.—(UP)—Declaring that better cooperation has resulted between the town and country as a result of 4-H club work, T. A. Erickson, state club leader, addressed several hundred Blue Earth county residents at the third annual "Achievement Day" program here last night. "The test of the work is in its results," he said.

DOLE AIR RACE PILOTS IN PROTEST

RESENT INSPECTION METHODS OF THE FEDERAL OFFICIALS

CLAIM LATTERS' DEMANDS ARE ENTIRELY TOO RIGOROUS

Oakland Airport, San Francisco Bay, Calif., Aug. 13.—(UP)—Pilots entered for the Dole air race to Honolulu protested vigorously today against the inspection methods of federal officials.

They claimed the inspectors had been too rigorous in their demands as to the condition of the ships and the ability of the pilots and navigators. A protest against the requirements was carried to Secretary of Commerce Herbert Hoover.

Maj. Clarence M. Young, director of aeronautics of the department of commerce, who defined the standards for qualification, was on his way to Washington today, but the local office of the department of commerce denied the protest had anything to do with his departure.

While the death of Captain Arthur V. Rogers cast a shadow over preparations for the take-off to Hawaii next Tuesday, other aviators hastened their efforts to get their planes in condition for the long flight.

Rogers was killed late yesterday when his tandem motored monoplane, "Angel of Los Angeles," crashed near Los Angeles. The death of Rogers, a British flying ace in the world war, was the third fatality of the preparations for the Dole flight. Lieuts. George Covell and A. W. Weggenner, navy officers, were burned to death near San Diego, Wednesday, after their plane fell.

Five planes remained to be tested before 10 A. M. Monday, the time established by the flight committee as the deadline for qualifying the ships.

This ruling will give the aviators a full day of rest before the start of the race at noon Tuesday.

The five ships yet to be tested are Buhl biplane "Miss Doran," Auggey Pellar and Miss Mildred Doran; Breese monoplane, "Aloah," Martin Jensen and Paul Schluter; S. Air King biplane, "City of Peoria," Chas. W. Parkhurst and Ralph C. Lewis, Jr.; Swallow monoplane, "Dallias Sprit," William P. Erwin and Alvin Elchwaldt; Travelair monoplane, "Woolaroo," Art Goebel and William V. Davis, Jr.

The four planes definitely qualified are the "Oklahoma," Bennett H. Griffin and Al Henley; the "Golden Eagle," Jack Frost and Gordon Scott; the "El Encanto," Norman Goddard and Lieut. Kenneth Hawkins; the "Pacific Flier," Maj. Livingston Irving.

Maj. Irving is the only entrant who will attempt the flight without a companion and has been named the "Lone Eagle" of the Dole race.

Frederick A. Giles, British war ace, was reported on his way here from Detroit for the contest, but had not yet reached the Oakland airport.

SMALL BOY TOUCHES POWER LINE AND IS KILLED

Moorhead, Minn., Aug. 13.—(UP)—Touching a broken power line of high voltage, 7-year-old Derwood Johnson, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Johnson, was electrocuted here today.

PRIVATE RIGHTS OF LATTER ARE ILLUMINATED

McADOO CLAIMS THERE ARE NO INVIOABLE "PRIVATE RIGHTS"

COMMUNITY CAN INTERFERE WHEN ACTING THROUGH PROPER CHANNELS

University, Va., Aug. 13.—(UP)—Former Secretary of Treasury William G. McAdoo today attacked wets who argue that the government shall not interfere with "private rights."

The one time candidate for the democratic presidential nomination told the University of Virginia Institute of Public Affairs there are no private rights with which the community cannot interfere when acting through proper channels.

Under the influence chiefly of a dislike of one of the recent amendments of the constitution," he said, "the case for private rights has been pushed to its logical conclusion, and it is being frankly contended in much current discussion that there are such rights which are sacred from interference from society, even when acting in its sovereign constitution-making policy."

He also attacked corruption in government and advocated keeping the government out of dishonest hands as the best safeguard against graft.

He defined the goals of good government as "conveniently enough described by the time-honored words, life, liberty and property, or more broadly, the pursuit of happiness." He characterized these as conditions guaranteed only by the existence of government, and hence subject to modifications which the community sees fit to impose.

McAdoo cited zoning laws as examples of the right of the government to regulate property in the interest of the community.

"Constitutional government of the democratic variety is the only possible way of harmonizing liberty and law; it is the only half-way ground between anarchy and despotism," he said. "The individual can enjoy liberty only insofar as he is protected by law from the lawless liberty of others, and therefore only insofar as he is willing to surrender his own freedom to do acts which the community judges to be inimical to the freedom of others."

The railroads, automobile, electric power, the telephone, subway, skyscraper, mass production and corporation have all added necessity for protection of the community's life, liberty and property, he pointed out.

The doctrine of "natural rights" of individuals, which cannot be infringed by the community, he said, was that of "reactionary extremists, and extreme and unthinking radicals."

McAdoo asserted "the last few years have witnessed a widespread revival and resurgence of the influence of corrupt machine politics."

"As long as we are faced by the danger that government will fall into the hands of groups which would employ its power only for private purposes, we cannot well permit any increase in its power and functions," he said.

GAMBLER WARFARE RENEWED IN CHICAGO

Chicago, Aug. 3.—(UP)—Three men were shot, two perhaps fatally, early today in what police believe to be a renewal of a warfare between two gambling elements.

One of the wounded men ran from the hospital, where he had been taken by police, and his identity was not learned.

Jack Zimmerman was shot through the chest near the heart and Frank Battaglia was shot in the head and stabbed several times. Doctors say they probably will not live.

The men claim to have left a gambling house only to be followed by six men who attacked them.

The manufacturer appeared delighted with his first two flights. He displayed no uneasiness as Lindbergh took him aloft in the Spirit of St. Louis for fifteen minutes, or when he later went with Lindbergh and a party of Ford officials for a forty minute flight in a giant three-motored plane.

VOTE DOWN 7 HOUR DAY FOR TYPO UNION

Indianapolis, Ind., Aug. 13.—(UP)—The diamond jubilee convention of the International Typographical union was at an end today after one of the stormiest sessions on record.

The last act of the delegates was to vote down the proposal to approve a seven hour day for members. Although there was considerable discussion on the subject the vote on the unfavorable report of the special committee was overwhelmingly against action at this time.

DAMAGE TO FARMS RUNS TO MILLIONS

IN MISSOURI FLOODED AREA IN- CLUDES SEVERAL COUNTIES

IN KANSAS A HAIL STORM SWEEPED OVER A LARGE AREA

Kansas City, Mo., Aug. 13.—(UP)—Rain again has brought streams of Missouri, Kansas, Oklahoma and Arkansas out of their banks. Damage to farm property will run into millions, it was estimated today, though no figures were available.

In Missouri, the Osage, the Pomme De Terre and other streams left their banks and were sweeping through a score of counties carrying added destruction to that already suffered in several floods this year.

In Kansas, a hail storm swept over a large area, beating down corn and ruining that crop in several small areas. Rain has left in its wake still more damage in the southeastern part of the state, though it is hoped the damage will be small.

Streams of this district, swept by floods several times during the last six months, again are causing alarm in the bottomlands. Flood warnings have been sent out over an extended area. The farmers are getting used to being warned to leave their homes because of danger from the high water.

In Oklahoma and Arkansas, the destruction is relatively small. Only the northern parts of these states will be affected by this latest flood. It was reported, and the water will not do a great deal of damage.

The storms, starting last Sunday and continuing every day, reach north into Nebraska where extensive damage to corn had been done through the week. Rains have been general over that state all week.

No respite was seen from the rains by the local weather bureau today.

WIND STORM AT GREAT BEND, KANS.

Great Bend, Kans., Aug. 13.—A storm swept this vicinity today, doing considerable damage and bringing fresh danger from floods. Holsington, a few miles from here, was reported to have suffered heavy damage from a wind storm there.

Wires to Holsington are down and no confirmation of the reports was available. Several persons were reported injured and it was added there may have been loss of life.

Several persons were reported missing at Holsington and the Rev. J. N. Vernon of Larned, who passed through the town last night, reported the storm was very bad at that time. The minister declared more than eight inches of water had fallen there and the rain was continuing.

Hutchinson reported 2.5 inches of rain there last night and early this morning.

Great Bend, Kans., Aug. 13.—Property damage estimated at more than $20,000 was done at Holsington by a high wind and heavy rain last night and early today, first definite reports received here today said.

Several persons were injured, but there was no loss of life, it was stated. Rain to a depth of seven inches fell at Holsington while a heavy rain was felt generally over this part of the state.

The Arkansas river threatens to overflow its banks and spread destruction over a large area.

Flood warnings have been sent out from the government office at Topeka.

PRAISES EFFECTS OF 4-H CLUB WORK IN STATE

Mankato, Minn., Aug. 13.—(UP)—Declaring that better cooperation has resulted between the town and country as a result of 4-H club work, T. A. Erickson, state club leader, addressed several hundred Blue Earth county residents at the third annual "Achievement Day" program here last night. "The test of the work is in its results," he said.

DOLE AIR RACE PILOTS IN PROTEST

RESENT INSPECTION METHODS OF THE FEDERAL OFFICIALS

CLAIM LATTERS' DEMANDS ARE ENTIRELY TOO RIGOROUS

Oakland Airport, San Francisco Bay, Calif., Aug. 13.—(UP)—Pilots entered for the Dole air race to Honolulu protested vigorously today against the inspection methods of federal officials.

They claimed the inspectors had been too rigorous in their demands as to the condition of the ships and the ability of the pilots and navigators. A protest against the requirements was carried to Secretary of Commerce Herbert Hoover.

Maj. Clarence M. Young, director of aeronautics of the department of commerce, who defined the standards for qualification, was on his way to Washington today, but the local office of the department of commerce denied the protest had anything to do with his departure.

While the death of Captain Arthur V. Rogers cast a shadow over preparations for the take-off to Hawaii next Tuesday, other aviators hastened their efforts to get their planes in condition for the long flight.

Rogers was killed late yesterday when his tandem motored monoplane, "Angel of Los Angeles," crashed near Los Angeles. The death of Rogers, a British flying ace in the world war, was the third fatality of the preparations for the Dole flight. Lieuts. George Covell and A. W. Weggener, navy officers, were burned to death near San Diego, Wednesday, after their plane fell.

Five planes remained to be tested before 10 A. M. Monday, the time established by the flight committee as the deadline for qualifying the ships.

This ruling will give the aviators a full day of rest before the start of the race at noon Tuesday.

The five ships yet to be tested are Buhl biplane "Miss Doran," Augie Pedlar and Miss Mildred Doran; Breeze monoplane, "Aloah," Martin Jensen and Paul Schluter; S. Air King biplane, "City of Peoria," Chas. W. Parkhurst and Ralph C. Lewis, Jr.; Swallow monoplane, "Dallas Spirit," William P. Erwin and Alvin Eichwaldt; Traveler monoplane, "Woolcoroc," Art Goebel and William V. Davis, Jr.

The four planes definitely qualified are the "Oklahoma," Bennett H. Griffin and Al Henley; the "Golden Eagle," Jack Frost and Gordon Scott; the "El Encanto," Norman Goddard and Lieut. Kenneth Hawkins; the "Pacific Flier," Maj. Livingston Irving.

Maj. Irving is the only entrant who will attempt the flight without a companion and has been named the "Lone Eagle" of the Dole race.

Frederick A. Giles, British war ace, was reported on his way here from Detroit for the contest, but had not yet reached the Oakland airport.

SMALL BOY TOUCHES POWER LINE AND IS KILLED

Moorhead, Minn., Aug. 13.—(UP)—Touching a broken power line of high voltage, 7-year-old Derwood Johnson, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Johnson, was electrocuted here today.

PRIVATE RIGHTS OF LATTER ARE ILLUMINATED

McADOO CLAIMS THERE ARE NO INVIOABLE "PRIVATE RIGHTS"

COMMUNITY CAN INTERFERE WHEN ACTING THROUGH PROPER CHANNELS

University, Va., Aug. 13.—(UP)—Former Secretary of Treasury William G. McAdoo today attacked wets who argue that the government shall not interfere with "private rights."

The one time candidate for the democratic presidential nomination told the University of Virginia Institute of Public Affairs there are no private rights with which the community cannot interfere when acting through proper channels.

Under the influence chiefly of a dislike of one of the recent amendments of the constitution," he said, "the case for private rights has been pushed to its logical conclusion, and it is being frankly contended in much current discussion that there are such rights which are sacred from interference from society, even when acting in its sovereign constitution-making policy."

He also attacked corruption in government and advocated keeping the government out of dishonest hands as the best safeguard against graft.

He defined the goals of good government as "conveniently enough described by the time-honored words, life, liberty and property, or more broadly, the pursuit of happiness." He characterized these as conditions guaranteed only by the existence of government, and hence subject to modifications which the community sees fit to impose.

McAdoo cited zoning laws as examples of the right of the government to regulate property in the interest of the community.

"Constitutional government of the democratic variety is the only possible way of harmonizing liberty and law; it is the only half-way ground between anarchy and despotism," he said. "The individual can enjoy liberty only insofar as he is protected by law from the lawless liberty of others, and therefore only insofar as he is willing to surrender his own freedom to do acts which the community judges to be inimical to the freedom of others."

The railroads, automobile, electric power, the telephone, subway, skyscraper, mass production and corporation have all added necessity for protection of the community's life, liberty and property, he pointed out.

The doctrine of "natural rights" of individuals, which cannot be infringed by the community, he said, was that of "reactionary extremists, and extreme and unthinking radicals."

McAdoo asserted "the last few years have witnessed a widespread revival and resurgence of the influence of corrupt machine politics."

"As long as we are faced by the danger that government will fall into the hands of groups which would employ its power only for private purposes, we cannot well permit any increase in its power and functions," he said.

GAMBLER WARFARE RENEWED IN CHICAGO

Chicago, Aug. 3.—(UP)—Three men were shot, two perhaps fatally, early today in what police believe to be a renewal of a warfare between two gambling elements.

One of the wounded men ran from the hospital, where he had been taken by police, and his identity was not learned.

Jack Zimmerman was shot through the chest near the heart and Frank Battaglia was shot in the head and stabbed several times. Doctors say they probably will not live.

The men claim to have left a gambling house only to be followed by six men who attacked them.

DRIVE ON UNDERWORLD RESORTS OF ST. PAUL NETS 25 IN JAIL

St. Paul, Aug. 13.—(UP)—Twenty-five persons were in jail in the Twin Cities today following one of the largest drives of underworld resorts ever made by federal agents.

Twenty agents, under command of

S. B. Quale, northwest prohibition director, raided eight establishments in Minneapolis and seven in St. Paul. All the persons arrested are charged with sale and possession of liquor.

Among those arrested was Sammy Terrin, former St. Paul pugilist and well known police character, who is held in the county jail on a conspiracy charge growing out of a raid on a garage where agents found 100 quarts of moonshine in his automobile.

Shanghai, Aug. 13.—Wounded Nationalist soldiers were pouring into Nanking today after what was reported to have been the most disastrous battle of the Chinese war.

The northern armies continued to advance toward Nanking, which is the moderate Nationalist capital, and there was considerable uneasiness there. Wealthy Chinese were evacuating the city and it was feared that

DRIVE ON UNDERWORLD RESORTS OF ST. PAUL NETS 25 IN JAIL

St. Paul, Aug. 13.—(UP)—Twenty-five persons were in jail in the Twin Cities today following one of the largest drives of underworld resorts ever made by federal agents.

Twenty agents, under command of

S. B. Quale, northwest prohibition director, raided eight establishments in Minneapolis and seven in St. Paul.

Among those arrested was Sammy Terrin, former St. Paul pugilist and well known police character, who is held in the county jail on a conspiracy charge growing out of a raid on a garage where agents found 100 quarts of moonshine in his automobile.

WEATHER BOTHERS THE GERMAN FLIGHT

THE JUNKERS TRANS-ATLANTIC PLANES TARRY AT BERLIN

Berlin, Aug. 13. — (UP) — The Junkers trans-Atlantic planes, Bremen and Europa, will be unable to start their flight to New York unless the weather suddenly changes for the better, in which event the start would be made about sunset tonight, Junkers officials announced.

The start was to have been made today but the last weather report showed poor conditions over the Atlantic.

A tentative postponement was announced, which will be revoked only in the event of a sudden favorable change in the weather.

The wives of the pilots were none too anxious that the flight start today, the day being the 13th of the month.

The fliers will take with them an appeal from the Rote Hilfe, an international organization for the relief of political prisoners, in behalf of Sacco and Vanzetti.

HEDDA HOYT TELLS OF COLORS WARM AND COOL

By HEDDA HOYT

New York, Aug. 13. — (UP) — Were it not for an assortment of colors and color combinations, women would be quite as drab as men. Each season fashion promotes certain new color blendings which revive our interest in clothes and seem to give us a new lease on life.

Colors may be divided into two classes, warm colors and cold colors. The warm colors reflect light such as red, orange or colors that have red or orange tones in them. Orchid, for instance, a mixture of white, black and red, is a warm tone. Warm shades are inclined to make one appear larger than cool shades such as green, gray, blue, or bluish violet. The blending of a cold color with a warm color may produce either cold or warmth according to which shade is the predominating one. Warm colors are winter tones whereas cool colors are best suited for warm summer months.

Warm Colors

Red suggests fire, life, heat, danger. Blended with brown or other colors the same effect is gained.

Pink, a less violent toning of red, suggests health, youth, blossoms. This is the most flattering shade to the average person.

Rose-beige and all of the rose-toned tans are inviting shades since they give forth an idea of warmth. Orange suggests the warmth of autumn fires, the outdoors.

Cool Shades

Green, yellow, white, gray, blue are cold colors.

Green expresses life, vigor, open spaces.

Yellow expresses sunlight, butterflies, spring flowers.

Gray reminds one of the dawn, the sea, mists.

Blue suggests skies, calm, dignity, stateliness.

White, perhaps the coldest tone, suggests snow, purity, youth.

Cool shades are much easier to wear than warm ones since warm shades are apt to be overpowering to the wearer. Pastels are generally cool shades and while they fail to attract attention, they are always flattering to the wearer.

Navy blue is a color which can be worn the year-round as it seems neither to express warmth or cold. Black and white combinations are successful for the same reason. Freak shades such as majenta, periwinkle and others are difficult ones for the average person to wear. Shades which blend with the skies, the fields, and the ground are the easiest ones to wear becomingly. One never tires of them. Beige, tans and parchment tones, for instance, are neutral shades which always appear smart without being overpowering or conspicuous.

ABOUT FLAT HAIRCUTS

New York, Aug. 13. — (UP) — If you worry over trifles And detest the pace that strifes If keeping up with fashions is a bore

Take a hitch in your suspenders Wear a haircut minus fenders And with concentrated effort you still score!

As long as the skirt is short and the hair is flat to the head, you're in style. Necklines may vary, boleros may be unheard of; tiers, flounces and flares may flop where they will but if the skirt is short you'll pass muster without being shot at providing of course, that the hair is worn as flat as an ear at the sides and back.

Many a smart little Miss puts over the modern style with a two and a half yard remnant of cloth. The average yardage worn by the flapper, including undergarments, is less than six yards. Formerly it required that amount to make a dress. Style today depends upon shortage of material and shortage of skirt-length.

When manufacturers of women's clothing found that they could skip on material and still command the same prices for clothes they started something which the cloth manufacturers are now striving to stop. Women are in league with the clothing manufacturers since they have found that the 'fewer the better' holds good where yardage is concerned. The shorter and scantier dresses are, the more comfortable they are and the easier and cheaper they are to make. The fact that modern dresses could be copied so cheaply by home seamstresses caused dress manufacturers to put out a line of medium-priced dresses. Thus we have the popular $15 frocks for all occasions.

When the time comes for longer and wider skirts the price of dresses will probably soar upwards. Even trimming details have been looking greatly during the short skirt wave. This fact also, has made the copying of dresses easier. It is predicted that winter frocks, though short as to hems, will again resort to embroidery, beadwork and other trimming details. But that's a future worry! While the summer is here all that's required is to be short-skirted and not coiffured.

Frame Houses Last

Engineers of the Lumber Manufacturers' association in a recent survey found that the average life of a house is about 100 years, although individual dwellings may last considerably longer. After a century structural depreciation occurs sufficient to make a house unfit for further use. Well-built frame houses depreciate in value only a little more than those of brick or stone.

50,000 IN REVOLT IN CHAYANTA AND LINARES PROV- INCES

FEARS EXPRESSED THE REBELS MAY INCREASE TO 200,000

La Paz, Bolivia, Aug. 13. — (UP) — Government troops opposed 50,000 rebellious Indians in the provinces of Chayanta and Linares today and grave fears were expressed that the numbers of the rebels would be increased to 200,000 unless the troops immediately were successful.

Burning, murder and pillage were reported from the affected areas and the stories of violence caused tremendous excitement.

Communism was blamed by the government for the rebellion in which the Indians were said to be endeavoring to seize the land upon which they had been employed. About 100 Indians were killed yesterday in battle with troops sent to quell the rebellion.

The following communique was issued by the government:

"The uprising of Indians in the republic is serious. Government troops sent to suppress the uprising in Chayanta fought a battle in which 100 Indians were killed. One member of the government force was killed.

"Armed Indians initiated the uprising in the department of Chuquaca and Cochabamba. It is feared that the movement will spread to Santa Cruz and a Paz which would mean that 200,000 Indians would be involved.

"The movement is the result of communistic propaganda. The principle idea of the 50,000 Indians is to take over the land on which they were employed.

"Yesterday we received a petition from 30 property owners asking for protection from the Indians in the vicinity of Cochabamba. A regiment from Camacho is leaving Cochabamba for Colquechaca.

"The troops have captured Luis Navarro, accused of being the instigator of the rebellion and also accused of having been at the bottom of a recent communist plot in La Paz. Navarro is known to have collected five pesos from each Indian to defray the cost of acquiring the right to be considered when the land is apportioned among the Indians."

No estimates were available of the number killed so far, nor of the property damage. Private advices from the rebellion area said the Indians were ruthless, not hesitating to kill and destroy.

THE WASTE OF INADEQUATE PREPAREDNESS

THERE has been a considerable amount of declamation about the waste of war, says the Kansas City Star.

In an address at Camp Grant, Ill., this week, Gen. Charles P. Summerall, army chief of staff pointed to a phase of this waste which frequently is overlooked. He referred chiefly to the shortsighted policy that interfered with adequate preparation for this country's participation in the World War. He showed that men who entered the ranks were not fitted, but rather unfitted for the conflict, that they were improperly housed at the training camps and that the Germans came very nearly being correct in their estimate that they could defeat the allies before America could get into the fight.

These are recognized facts among military leaders of the country. These men and those citizens and government officials who have taken the time to acquaint themselves with the actual conditions understand the folly of a lax and indifferent policy of preparedness. But a wider understanding of it is essential; and it was for this that General Summerall appealed. He asked that the army of this country be thought of, not as a separate caste, but that its members be regarded as American citizens. Without proper support and understanding of the military organization of the country, he said, adequate preparedness, necessary to protection of the nation and to its citizens who enlist in its service, is out of the question.

The appeal was made for promotion of peace, rather than war. Americans are a peace-loving people, but too often the conditions under which peace may be secured or prolonged are not understood or given due consideration. General Summerall suggested that peace as well as war should be made a question of special study. There is a science of peace as well as war, he declared, but the science of peace, the more exacting of the two, has not been developed and given special attention; particularly not by those who are competent to consider the subject on a sound basis. Too often, the question both of war and peace are dealt with in sentimental fashion. They are not matters, as they should be, of plain common sense. If both should receive from the great body of citizens the kind of attention that is given to business affairs, the security and general welfare of the country would be substantially advanced.

THE DRUNKEN DRIVER, A MENACE

THE drunken driver is a potential danger. He is a menace to himself, to the parties driving with him and to any one or anything he meets. All rules of the road, all traffic laws fail, when alcohol muddles the brain of the drunken driver. He has no regard for himself or his party and is as dangerous, in fact more so, than a switch engine running wild in the yards, for the engine, for a time at least, will stick to the rails, while the drunken maniac at a wheel thinks the world is his to drive in or through.

As stated by County Attorney Forbes of St. Louis county, in the Duluth Herald, a drunken driver can be sent to jail for a year, can be fined a thousand dollars, and can be prohibited from driving an automobile for two years.

The saturation point has not been reached in the sale of automobiles, but the saturation point in travel is reached on many highways on Sundays and holidays when traffic crowds the roads. It is difficult enough for a sane person to handle his car in the maze of city or country travel, and it becomes a task of rare skill and courage to dodge the menace of a drunken driver, should one appear.

HOW A NEAR CHAMPION PREPARES FOR TEST

WHEN Joe Ryan made his preparations for the gruelling play of yesterday at Breezy Point lodge, this 18 year old golfer went to bed at 10 o'clock Thursday evening. Result—Joe came within one point of equalling the play of the veteran medalist, David N. Tallman of Willmar, senior champion of the Northwest.

Now there are fellows mean enough to hint that if Joe had gone to bed at 9 a. m. he would have equalled if not excelled Tallman's 76.

This Lindbergh stunt of staying up a week at a time and sleeping two hours and a half before an epoch flight, is not imitated by golfers who seek medalist honors in championship flights. Neither does a sandwich or two satisfy the inner man.

We have failed to find a skinny golfer in the winning class. Joe, like all successful golfers, is a husky lad. His frame will fill out more in time, and he will have the build of a Walter Hagen or Harry Legg.

COOPERATIVE ASSOCIATIONS DO MUCH BUSINESS

COOPERATIVE associations in Minnesota lead the United States for the largest volume of business done, according to figures received by the Minnesota Agricultural Experiment station from the United States Department of Agriculture.

Minnesota stands at the top of the list with a total of $223,980,000 for 1383 associations, while California follows with $223,960,000 for business transacted by 350 cooperative groups. The figures are for a period covering ten years, 1915-25.

Other states leading in the order named are as follows: Illinois, Iowa, Wisconsin, Ohio, New York, and Kansas. These states are responsible for 52 per cent of this business done in the country.

During the ten-year period, the number of associations increased 315 per cent, and the amount of business 277 per cent. In Missouri, Oklahoma, Georgia, Indiana, North Carolina, and Mississippi the membership increased 1,000 per cent.

WE MUST ADVERTISE OUR OWN LAKE COUNTRY

THE Brainerd Lake Region must do more to advertise its own resources.

We can't afford to see travel pass us and hike to other sections.

Trunk Highway No. 1 is diverting traffic to Duluth and Canada.

The time may come when we shall find it necessary to have our own lake bureau. As mentioned by a speaker at the Chamber of Commerce last winter, all agencies of the Brainerd Lake Region should combine and assist to get the tourist to Brainerd. CHAPTER I

Fabien Ready to Become a Priest
It was a glorious May morning filled with great promise of happiness and love!

The Chevalier Fabien Des Groux, a romantically poetic youth, talked quietly with some fellow graduate students at the White Horse Inn, at Amiens, while waiting for the Paris diligence to carry them on to St. Sulpice to complete their training for the priesthood.

Fabien's parents belonged to one of the first families of Picardy and he gallantly reflected the fact that he was a gentleman of the highest type. He was a great favorite with his student associates and the inhabitants of the town. His life had been so well regulated and studious that his masters had pointed to him as a model of conduct for other scholars. Not that Fabien made any sacrifices or efforts to acquire this reputation, but a naturally tranquil disposition and a love for study had made him apply his time to work and duty. He had an inborn dislike for vice that was accepted as positive proof of virtue.

Fabien had earned his title, of Chevalier, by being decorated with the cross and when the Bishop of the Diocese proposed that upon graduation he enter the church, Fabien accepted the honor as one entirely to his liking.

Presently a lay brother rode up to the inn and, leaving his mount outside the gate, began searching for Fabien among the people at the little iron tables in the yard. He was greatly relieved to learn from one of the students that the youth he sought was in the tavern. The kindly old man's mission was important and his face lighted up.

The fragrant pink blossoms from the flowering trees fluttered against the windows and mingled with the dust as the horses plodded on toward the inn.

Spring seemed to feel that she had a rival inside the great coach. It was true. Nature never made a more beautiful creation than Manon Lescant. Her face was fair—the kind that haunted and moved men's souls. Once a man saw her she lived always in his heart. She was truly feminine, yet so deliciously beautiful that she seemed unreal.

As the great bells in the Chapter tower made themselves heard above the rumble of the diligence, Manon suddenly stopped stroking the fluffy white kitten she held in her lap and a shadow fell across her face.

Her elder brother, Andre Lescant, resplendent in the gay uniform of the Guards, watched her narrowly from his sprawled out position on the other side of the diligence.

"What's the trouble, little sister? Are you already turning up your pretty nose at the thought of convent life?" Lescant inquired quizzically.

"No, no, brother dear," Manon hastened to correct him, at the same time trying to control her trembling lips. "My only thought is to do as you wish and not worry you—because you are all I have."

Nevertheless, at the prospect of lonely convent life, Manon buried her face in the great pink bow on her kitten's neck so that her brother, and perhaps the other occupants of the diligence, would not see the tears that came in spite of her efforts to keep them back.

Lescant shrugged his shoulder.

Her elder brother, Andre Lescant, resplendent in the gay uniform of the Guards, watched her.

with great sympathy and love when he saw Fabien talking with Jean Tiberge, a loyal friend and fellow student—one need never worry about the company that Fabien found congenial!

"My son," said the lay brother, taking a little medal from his belt and quietly presenting it to Fabien. "Here is a medal for protection against worldly evil—the Bishop bade me give it to you before you leave us to complete your training."

Fabien bowed in reverential thanks over the lay brother's hand as he accepted the holy token. A divinely spiritual expression spread over his face. He could not refrain from thinking how little he needed such a charm. Worldly pleasures and appetites could never tempt him from his studies and calling! And those who knew him were just as sure of this as Fabien himself.

"Ah! Fabien, I am delighted," broke in Tiberge, putting his arm about his friend's shoulder. "You have earned that reward in all fairness. None of us can equal your brilliance and unselfish devotion."

"I deserve no credit—I have simply found my calling and every thing else follows naturally." "Perhaps that is true," agreed Tiberge. "It is quite characteristic that you take no credit for anything you do."

A beautiful smile lighted up Fabien's face as he heard his friend's compliment.

"You know, Tiberge, my greatest regret at leaving here is that you are not ready to depart at the same time. It is difficult to leave a loyal friend with whom one has grown up. I shall never forget you, and your thousand good qualities. We shall meet again, later on when we become—"

The remainder of Fabien's sentence was left unfinished when the students in the courtyard loudly announced that the diligence was appearing down the road.

The soft green leaves danced gracefully on their wayward branches and gently brushed against the dusty diligence as it wound along the narrow road through the sunshine.

THE WASTE OF INADEQUATE PREPAREDNESS

THERE has been a considerable amount of declamation about the waste of war, says the Kansas City Star.

In an address at Camp Grant, Ill., this week, Gen. Charles P. Summerall, army chief of staff pointed to a phase of this waste which frequently is overlooked. He referred chiefly to the short-sighted policy that interfered with adequate preparation for this country's participation in the World War. He showed that men who entered the ranks were not fitted, but rather unfitted for the conflict, that they were improperly housed at the training camps and that the Germans came very nearly being correct in their estimate that they could defeat the allies before America could get into the fight.

These are recognized facts among military leaders of the country. These men and those citizens and government officials who have taken the time to acquaint themselves with the actual conditions understand the folly of a lax and indifferent policy of preparedness. But a wider understanding of it is essential; and it was for this that General Summerall appealed. He asked that the army of this country be thought of, not as a separate caste, but that its members be regarded as American citizens. Without proper support and understanding of the military organization of the country, he said, adequate preparedness, necessary to protection of the nation and to its citizens who enlist in its service, is out of the question.

The appeal was made for promotion of peace, rather than war. Americans are a peace-loving people, but too often the conditions under which peace may be secured or prolonged are not understood or given due consideration. General Summerall suggested that peace as well as war should be made a question of special study. There is a science of peace as well as war, he declared, but the science of peace, the more exacting of the two, has not been developed and given special attention; particularly not by those who are competent to consider the subject on a sound basis. Too often, the question both of war and peace are dealt with in sentimental fashion. They are not matters, as they should be, of plain common sense. If both should receive from the great body of citizens the kind of attention that is given to business affairs, the security and general welfare of the country would be substantially advanced.

Centipede House Fly Enemy

The centipede is found pretty much all over the world. The species common in the United States, Scutigera Forceps, was reported over 20 years ago as devoting the nights to killing house flies. Later an observer detected one in the act of capturing a butterfly much larger than itself. The insect remains concealed during the day.

WOMEN'S FINALS IN TOURNAMENT WILL BE PLAYED TODAY

Breezy Point Lodge, Pequot, Aug. 13.—In the championship flight of women's play, 10,000 Lakes Golf Championship, held yesterday, Miss Donna Lyman Bemidji, defeated Mrs. S. W. Waters, Interlachen, 3 and 2. Mrs. Orrin Safford, Minneapolis, defeated Mrs. C. W. Hiller, Crookston, 4 and 3. Mrs. A. A. Houston, Interlachen, defeated Mrs. Roscoe Fawcett, Interlachen, 1 up, 20 holes. Mrs. Ralph Little defeated Mrs. C. H. Siems, St. Paul, 5 and 4. Following this Mrs. Safford defeated Miss Lyman, 5 and 4. Mrs. Little defeated Mrs. Houston 1 up, 20 holes. The finals will be played today.

In the women's first flight, Mrs. C. E. Anderson, Minneapolis, defeated Miss Kate Skiles, St. Paul, 4 and 3. Mrs. Paul Daube, Chicago, champion of Ravine club, defeated Mrs. Fred Bohne, Des Moines, Iowa, 7 and 6.

Mrs. L. H. Schnedler, Interlachen, won from Mrs. Francis Bonebrake, Topeka, Kansas, by default.

Mrs. Walter Gooch, Minikahda won from Mrs. A. J. Rough, Minneapolis Golf club, 1 up.

Mrs. Anderson defeated Mrs. Daube, 4 and 3.

Mrs. Gooch defeated Mrs. Schnedler, 1 up, 20 holes.

D. M. Tallman, of Wilmar, president of Minnesota State Golfers Association, was medalist yesterday with 76 in the first day's play at the men's championship, and led such players as Harry Legg, of Minikahda, former western amateur champion, 77; Joe Ryan, Brainerd Country club star, 77; Lester Bolstad, former national public links champion, 80; Jack Sprague of Superior, 80; Tom Dickey of Lafayette club, 81; John Carey of Cedar Rapids, Ia., 83; Earl Mackenzie, 85; Ralph Little, 85; Paul Daube, 86; B. W. Orne of Brainerd, 89; H. Koenigsberger, Des Moines, 89; Don Ryan of Brainerd, 90; Grant Westerson of Chicago, 90; A. J. Rough, 91.

Pairings for tomorrow are: Tallman to play Little; Don Ryan and Carey; Sprague and Orne; Daube and Joe Ryan; Legg and C. W. Hiller of Crookston; Rough and Mackenzie; Dickey and Westerson; Bolstad and Koenigsberger.

In the men's first flight tomorrow E. T. Meredith, Jr., Des Moines, Ia., plays E. B. Northrup, Minikahda. Captain W. H. Fawcett plays Gene Hawkins. M. R. Lauritzen, Minneapolis, plays I. M. Bye. W. A. Thomas plays W. R. Hiller, Brainerd. J. D. Mackenzie, Superior, plays E. B. Butler of Des Moines. E. B. Hamilton plays Ed LaVoie, St. Paul. Louis Davis, Jr., plays E. Blank. C. L. Dahlberg plays C. L. Dickey.

Tallman, who carried off medalist honors with a 76, went out with a 36 on the first nine to equal par and after putting several three put greens, the veteran came home with a forty for 76.

Joe Ryan, 18-year-old star of the Brainerd Country club, scoring 77, was three strokes better than the eighty turned in by Bolstad of public links fame, and Jack Sprague of the Superior club.

The scores were unusually high because of the rough. When the boys got into the tall grass it took them at least two strokes to get out.

DAVIS LEADS IN HORSESHOE PLAY AT DULUTH

Duluth, Minn., Aug. 13.—(UP)—The second day's play in the finals of the national horse shoe tournament began here today with World Champion C. C. Davis, Columbus, Ohio, in the lead. He was followed closely by Berdurye, Wichita, champion of Kansas. Frank Jackson, former world's champion, Lamoni, Ia., and Jimmy Risk Montpelier, champion of Indiana.

Mrs. C. A. Lanham of Bloomington Ill., broke the world's record for women yesterday when she scored 20 ringers in 24 shoes pitched. She also threw six consecutive double ringers beating the former world's mark of five. She was leading the women's preliminaries today.

GANGLING 1ST BASEMAN OF ST. LOUIS CARDS

CARDINALS NOW TIE WITH PITTSBURGH FOR SECOND PLACE

JIM HOMERED IN 11TH INNING. ST. LOUIS DEFEATS PIRATES 2 TO 1

(By UNITED PRESS)

Jim Bottomley, gangling first baseman of the world champion St. Louis Cardinals, drove his team into a tie with Pittsburgh for second place in the National league when he homered in the eleventh inning to give St. Louis a 2-1 victory over Pittsburgh.

Pittsburgh and St. Louis now are five games behind the Chicago Cubs, the league leaders, who were idle yesterday.

It was a well pitched game. Carmen Hill worked for the Pirates and Jess Haines—who incidentally won his 18th game—was working for the Cardinals. Haines permitted but four hits while the Cardinals tapped Hill for six including two doubles, a triple and a home run.

Roger Hornsby drove out his eighteenth home run of the season with the bases filled in the eighth inning to start a rally that gave the Giants a 7-6 victory over Brooklyn. Elliott had held the Giants scoreless until the eighth. With the bases loaded Hornsby drove out the home run and five runs were scored in that inning before the side was retired. One additional run was scored in each the ninth and tenth innings.

Ty Cobb and Zach Wheat divided eight of the fifteen hits the Philadelphia Athletics got and the Mackmen defeated Boston 7-1. Ten thousand boys were guests of the Athletics.

Detroit scored its third successive victory over St. Louis 7-3. The count was knotted until the eighth inning when the Tigers drove Vangilder from the mound and scored four runs to assure victory.

The Boston Braves defeated Philadelphia 12-6 in a hard hitting game which gave them a three out of four count for the series.

Columbus, O.—Kansas City made it five out of six with Columbus, hitting the Sox for offerings for seventeen runs and winning 11-1 to 5. Cobb and Nicholson with three and four hits respectively in five trips to bat, led the Blue assault.

Louisville, Ky.—St. Paul took no chances with Louisville and piled up a three run lead in the first inning to insure a safe margin the Saints won 5 to 4, despite the fact Zahniser permitted ten hits while Tincup was found for only seven.

Indianapolis, Ind.—Minneapolis concentrated its efforts in the fourth and fifth innings, scoring four and three runs respectively in those frames, to win 7 to 5 from Indianapolis. Moon held the Indians to seven hits.

Toledo, O.—Eddleman scattered hits of the league leading Toledo club, and Milwaukee took the final game of the series 5 to 1. The Hens scored in the third inning but were unable to get a man even close to home after that.

DELAY ENTRANCE OF SICK GIRL AND SHE DIES

Philadelphia, Aug. 13.—(UP)—Deferred permission to enter this country by the immigration authorities on the Canadian border proved fatal to Miss Edith Krasner, 19, a Canadian girl, who is dead here today as a result of a tooth lodged in her lung.

Miss Krasner several days ago had two teeth extracted under an anesthetic in Montreal and later was stricken with an illness, which physicians diagnosed as pneumonia.

After being X-rayed, however, it was discovered that one of the teeth had lodged in her lung and it was decided to send her here to the Jefferson hospital for an operation.

The immigration officials delayed her entrance to the country until the facts of her illness were determined and when she arrived here, it was too late to save her.

The bronchitis clinic was to have performed the operation to extract the tooth.

George Lott, Jr., of Chicago, conqueror of Rene Lacoste, 6-2, 7-5, 6-2, in the final round of the invitation tennis tournament at the Meadow club.

Did Jack Dempsey Foul Sharkey?

That's the big question local fans will be given an opportunity to see for themselves Saturday and Sunday at the Lyceum where Tex Rickard's official motion pictures will be shown. These movies show very clearly every blow struck and the knockout is shown in slow motion which enables spectators to see plainly the fatal blow which gave Dempsey the decision.

AMERICA'S TITLE TO WIGHTMAN CUP ASSURED

INTERNATIONAL TENNIS TROPHY SEEMS IN GRASP OF YANKEES

STANDING AT WEST SIDE FOREST HILLS: U. S. 2 AND ENGLAND 1

By HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

New York, Aug. 13.—America's title to the Wightman International Tennis Cup seemed assured today after the opening day's matches at the fashionable West Side Forest Hills club.

The standing:
United States, 2.
Great Britain, 1.

The United States women won two singles matches with one surprise and lost a doubles match with no surprise because it has been long accepted that the British and French players know more about tennis doubles than Americans do. One thing stood out:

Tex Rickard certainly was not a sucker when he allowed Charley Pyle to make professionals out of the sacred tennis amateurs. There probably wasn't enough money in the house to pay for the grooms and hostlers who had to groom and host the green field upon which the players were working and for the other servants who had to seek for tips in the sacred club house where the royalty of Long Island and Westchester had gathered for tea, before, between and after the matches.

After reporting a couple of heavy weight fights that were followed with arguments about—"Was it fair or foul?" it should be an interesting and satisfying assignment to get to work on a polite sport like tennis.

But, tennis is so polite that a newspaperman cannot work without annoying the players. The newspapermen were told that they would have to sit back where the sitting wasn't so good and where the seeing was terrible because the British girls couldn't be annoyed by the noise of typewriters and telegraph keys.

However, Miss Helen Wills and Mrs. Molla Mallory annoyed the visiting ladies more than the noise of the writers.

Miss Wills, playing the greatest tennis of her career, toyed with Miss Joan Fry, a comely London girl, and defeated her in the opening match at 6-2 and 6-0.

In the second match, Mrs. Molla Mallory, the current American champion, proved the sensation of the day when she defeated Mrs. Kathlene McKane Godfree, the No. 1 ranking British player, at 6-4 and 6-2.

It was this victory of Mrs. Mallory that appeared to provide the clincher on the cup and it was satisfying to her because the esteemed and lofty heads of the tennis association had debated long and at length

Betty Nuthall on British Team

Betty Nuthall, the sixteen-year-old English school girl who climbed Mrs. Mallory from the Wimbledon tournament recently, has been designated to go to the United States this summer as a member of the Wightman cup team.

The other members of the team which will attempt to regain the trophy are: Mrs. Kitty McKane Godfree, Miss Gwendolyn Sterry, Miss E. H. Harvey and Mrs. J. Hill.

The American squad was announced as Mrs. Mallory, Helen Wills, Elizabeth Ryan, Mrs. Hazel Hotchkiss Wightman, donor of the cup; Mrs. Marion Zinderstein Jessup, Miss Eleanor Goss, Miss Martha Bayard, Mrs. Charlotte Hosmer Chapin, Miss Margaret Blake, Miss Penelope Anderson and Miss Helen Jacobs.

whether Mrs. Mallory was still good enough to be placed on the team.

In the doubles match the British pair, Miss Gwendolyn Sterry and Mrs. John P. Hull, defeated Miss Eleanor Goss and Mrs. Charlotte Chapin at 5-7, 7-5 and 7-5.

Four matches were to be played today.

Miss Wills, playing the game she did in the first matches should beat Mrs. Godfree and Mrs. Mallory certainly should beat Joan Fry.

Helen Jacobs, the "Miss Berkeley II," should beat the good looking young Betty Nuthall if Miss Jacobs doesn't become frightened by the crowd and there are good chances that the crowd will not be big enough to frighten any but those of the Imperial stockholders of the club who are wearing holes through the hair on the tops of their heads figuring out how they can pay for the stadium.

SIX FORMER TITLE

HOLDERS IN WOMEN'S WESTERN GOLF PLAY

Lake Geneva, Wis., Aug. 13.—(UP)—Headed by six former title holders 94 women will tee off Monday in the women's western golf championship.

The entry list is one of the largest ever recorded for the tournament.

The former title holders who will be represented are Miss Dorothy Page, Madison, Wis., defending champion; Elaine Rosenthal Reinhardt, Dallas, champion in 1915 and 1925; Mrs. Perry Fisk, DeKalb, Ill., champion in 1919; Mrs. Melvin Jones, Chicago, 1921 title holder; Mrs. Dave Gaut, Memphis, Tenn., 1922 champion and Mrs. Miriam Burns Horn, Kansas City, champion in 1923.

Other stars of whom much is expected are Mrs. Lee Tida, Miss Virginia Van Wie, and Miss Florence Beebe of Chicago; Mrs. Harry Pressler of San Gabriel, Calif.; Miss Gertrude Boothby, Rochester, Minn.; Mrs. Harley Higbie and Mrs. Stewart Hanley of Detroit, and Miss Bernice Wall of Oshkosh, Wis.

Miss Beebe is the youngest entrant. She is only 16 years old but is considered one of the best women drivers in the country.

BASEBALL'S BIG FIVE

Ty Cobb added seven points to his batting average by hitting safely four times out of five attempts. One of the blows went for a double.

Hornsby's eighteenth home run of the season was his only hit in four chances, but it came with the bases filled and put the Giants in position to overcome a six run Brooklyn lead for victory.

Ruth, Gehrig and Speaker were idle.

Averages:	AB	H	Pct	HR
Gehrig	421	162	.385	35
Speaker	334	140	.362	1
Ruth	380	137	.360	39
Cobb	360	123	.341	5
Hornsby	407	139	.341	18

VERNON ALLEN NOW MINNESOTA JUNIOR GOLF CHAMP

Minneapolis, Aug. 13.—(UP)—Vernon Allen, sorrel-topped Minnesota youth, Minnesota junior golf champion, today was receiving the plaudits of friends following the victory that gave him the title Friday.

Allen defeated Edgar Bolstad of St. Paul 3 and 1 in a 36 hole final match of the state tournament at Hilltop golf course here. By virtue of his ability to score birdies and par almost at will, Allen snatched the victory from Bolstad who was leading 1 up on the home stretch.

YANKEE TENNIS CASE OF "SINGLE BLESSEDNESS"

TWO SINGLE MATCHES OF INTERNATIONAL SERIES WALK-AWAY FOR U. S.

HELEN WILLS QUICKLY DISPOSES OF COMPETITOR JOAN FRY

By MARY K. BROWNE
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
(Copyright 1927 by United Press)

Forest Hills, Aug. 13.—American tennis, at least, seems to be a case of "single blessedness" while the English brand appears to work better in double harness. The two single matches of the international series played at Forest Hills yesterday turned out to be a walkaway for the Americans. Helen Wills took less than thirty minutes to dispose of Joan Fry and Mrs. Molla Mallory only a little longer to defeat Mrs. Kitty McKane Godfree.

The second English doubles team, however, scored the only victory for England and kept their team in the running. The doubles victory gives Great Britain an outside chance of winning the series, by taking all but one of the four matches on today's schedule.

Scarcely anyone would give a nickel for Mrs. Godfree's chances against Helen Wills, so that means that Betty Nuthall must defeat Helen Jacobs, Joan Fry must beat Mrs. Mallory and then Mrs. Godfree and Miss Harvey must triumph over Mrs. Wightman and Helen Wills.

There were a few who felt that Joan Fry did not play well against Helen Wills, but it was my opinion that Helen never gave Joan a chance to play aggressively. Helen kept her forever on the defensive and scrambling desperately. The American girl served with speed and a decided cut far to the outside service line, both types of services forced defensive shots from Miss Fry. Then Helen either sent stinging back hand or fore arm drives sizzling to the vital parts of Miss Fry's territory. The best the English girl could do was to scramble sometimes succeeding in returning them ineffectively but more often she was unable to reach the shot. Joan Fry is strong, fast and a wonderful retriever, but she was helpless in the face of Helen's perfect stroking, varied with drives cross court followed by a deep return to the back line. The combination was effective. Helen never came to the net voluntarily except twice in the last game and she won her point on each occasion.

Mrs. Mallory played beautiful tennis throughout her match with Mrs. Godfree and again justified the committee's implicit faith in Molla as a fighter and a player who takes the best advantage of every opportunity. Mrs. Godfree was far off her usual game, sending many weak returns into the net and many more to the fatal territory at mid-court, where Molla leaps on them savagely and fairly eats them alive. Mrs. Godfree fed Molla with drives to alternate corners instead of slow deep ones to Mrs. Mallory's back court.

The doubles match was the most exciting of the day and while it was a patch work quilt of good and bad tennis, it was nip and tuck from beginning to end with the English trailing most of the way until the last few minutes of play.

TED DREWES TO MEET JENNINGS

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 13.—(UP)—Ted Drewes, defending champion, will meet George J. Jennings, Jr., of Chicago in the finals of the national public parks tennis tournament tomorrow.

Drewes went into the finals by defeating Charles Lofeck of Chicago 2-6, 6-4, 6-4, 6-4 while Jennings defeated Eddie Jacobs of Baltimore 7-5, 6-3, 6-0.

WRESTLER RECOVERS FROM PAINFUL HIP WOUND

Red Wing, Minn., Aug. 13.—(UP)—Matt Dasher, wrestler, was recovering today from a painful hip wound, suffered when he was shot by Charles Johnson, 51, following an argument at Johnson's home last night.

Dasher was attempting to quiet Johnson when the latter, who is nearly blind, fired without warning. Physicians say Dasher will recover.

Johnson is being held, charged with assault with attempt to kill.

BIG BILL TILDEN VANQUISHES GEORGE LOTT, JR.

Southampton, N. Y., Aug. 13.—(UP)—Big Bill Tilden today vanquished George Lott, Jr., of Chicago, conqueror of Rene Lacoste, 6-2, 7-5, 6-2, in the final round of the invitation tennis tournament at the Meadow club.

GANGLING 1ST BASEMAN OF ST. LOUIS CARDS

CARDINALS NOW TIE WITH PITTSBURGH FOR SECOND PLACE

JIM HOMERED IN 11TH INNING. ST. LOUIS DEFEATS PIRATES 2 TO 1

(By UNITED PRESS)
Jim Bottomley, gangling first baseman of the world champion St. Louis Cardinals, drove his team into a tie with Pittsburgh for second place in the National league when he homered in the eleventh inning to give St. Louis a 2-1 victory over Pittsburgh.

Pittsburgh and St. Louis now are five games behind the Chicago Cubs, the league leaders, who were idle yesterday.

It was a well pitched game. Carmen Hill worked for the Pirates and Jess Haines—who incidentally won his 18th game—was working for the Cardinals. Haines permitted but four hits while the Cardinals tapped Hill for six including two doubles, a triple and a home run.

Roger Hornsby drove out his eighteenth home run of the season with the bases filled in the eighth inning to start a rally that gave the Giants a 7-5 victory over Brooklyn. Elliott had held the Giants scoreless until the eighth. With the bases loaded Hornsby drove out the home run and five runs were scored in that inning before the side was retired. One additional run was scored in each the ninth and tenth innings.

Ty Cobb and Zach Wheat divided eight of the fifteen hits the Philadelphia Athletics got and the Mackmen defeated Boston 7-1. Ten thousand boys were guests of the Athletics.

Detroit scored its third successive victory over St. Louis 7-3. The count was knotted until the eighth inning when the Tigers drove Vangilder from the mound and scored four runs to assure victory.

The Boston Braves defeated Philadelphia 12-6 in a hard hitting game which gave them a three out of four count for the series.

Columbus, O.—Kansas City made it five out of six with Columbus, hitting the Senior offerings for seven consecutive games and winning 11 to 5. Jack and Nicholson with three and four hits respectively in five trips to bat, led the Blue assault.

Louisville, Ky.—St. Paul took no chances with Louisville and piled up a three run lead in the first inning to insure a safe margin the Saints won 5 to 4, despite the fact Zahniser permitted ten hits while Tincup was found for only seven.

Indianapolis, Ind.—Minneapolis concentrated its efforts in the fourth and fifth innings, scoring four and three runs respectively in those frames, to win 7 to 5 from Indianapolis. Moon held the Indians to seven hits.

Toledo, O.—Eddleman scattered hits of the league leading Toledo club, and Milwaukee took the final game of the series 6 to 1. The Hens scored in the third inning but were unable to get a man even close to home after that.

DELAY ENTRANCE OF SICK GIRL AND SHE DIES

Philadelphia, Aug. 13.—(UP)—Deferred permission to enter this country by the immigration authorities on the Canadian border proved fatal to Miss Edith Krasner, 19, a Canadian girl, who is dead here today as a result of a tooth lodged in her lung.

Miss Krasner several days ago had two teeth extracted under an anesthetic in Montreal and later was stricken with an illness, which physicians diagnosed as pneumonia.

After being X-rayed, however, it was discovered that one of the teeth had lodged in her lung and it was decided to send her here to the Jefferson hospital for an operation.

The immigration officials delayed her entrance to the country until the facts of her illness were determined and when she arrived here, it was too late to save her.

The bronchitis clinic was to have performed the operation to extract the tooth.

George Lott, Jr., of Chicago, conqueror of Rene Lacoste, 6-2, 7-5, 6-2, in the final round of the invitation tennis tournament at the Meadow club.

Did Jack Dempsey Foul Sharkey?

That's the big question local fans will be given an opportunity to see for themselves Saturday and Sunday at the Lyceum where Tex Rickard's official motion pictures will be shown. These movies show very clearly every blow struck and the knockout is shown in slow motion which enables spectators to see plainly the fatal blow which gave Dempsey the decision.

AMERICA'S TITLE TO WIGHTMAN CUP ASSURED

INTERNATIONAL TENNIS TROPHY SEEMS IN GRASP OF YANKEES

STANDING AT WEST SIDE FOREST HILLS: U. S. 2 AND ENGLAND 1

By HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

New York, Aug. 13.—America's title to the Wightman International Tennis Cup seemed assured today after the opening day's matches at the fashionable West Side Forest Hills club.

The standing:
United States, 2.
Great Britain, 1.

The United States women won two singles matches with one surprise and lost a doubles match with no surprise because it has been long accepted that the British and French players know more about tennis doubles than Americans do. One thing stood out:

Tex Rickard certainly was not a sucker when he allowed Charley Pyle to make professionals out of the sacred tennis amateurs. There probably wasn't enough money in the house to pay for the grooms and hostlers who had to groom and host

Betty Nuthall, the sixteen-year-old English school girl who climbed to Mrs. Mallory from the Wimbledon tournament recently, has been designated to go to the United States this summer as a member of the Wightman cup team.

The other members of the team which will attempt to regain the trophy are: Mrs. Kitty McKane Godfree, Miss Gwendolyn Sterry, Miss E. H. Harvey and Mrs. J. Hill.

The American squad was announced as Mrs. Mallory, Helen Wills, Elizabeth Ryan, Mrs. Hazel Hotchkiss Wightman, donor of the cup; Mrs. Marion Zinderstein Jessup, Miss Eleanor Goss, Miss Martha Bayard, Mrs. Charlotte Hosmer Chapin, Miss Margaret Blake, Miss Penelope Anderson and Miss Helen Jacobs.

whether Mrs. Mallory was still good enough to be placed on the team.

In the doubles match the British pair, Miss Gwendolyn Sterry and Mrs. John P. Hull, defeated Miss Eleanor Goss and Mrs. Charlotte Chapin at 5-7, 7-5 and 7-5.

Four matches were to be played today.

Miss Wills, playing the game she did in the first matches should bear Mrs. Godfree and Mrs. Mallory certainly should beat Joan Fry.

Helen Jacobs, the "Miss Berkeley II," should beat the good looking young Betty Nuthall if Miss Jacobs doesn't become frightened by the crowd and there are good chances that the crowd will not be big enough to frighten any but those of the imperial stockholders of the club who are wearing holes through the hair on the tops of their heads figuring out how they can pay for the stadium.

SIX FORMER TITLE HOLDERS IN WOMEN'S WESTERN GOLF PLAY

Lake Geneva, Wis., Aug. 13.—(UP)—Headed by six former title holders 94 women will tee off Monday in the women's western golf championship. The entry list is one of the largest ever recorded for the tournament.

The former title holders who will be represented are Miss Dorothy Page, Madison, Wis., defending champion; Elaine Rosenthal Reinhardt, Dallas, champion in 1915 and 1925; Mrs. Perry Fisk, DeKalb, Ill., champion in 1919; Mrs. Melvin Jones, Chicago, 1921 title holder; Mrs. Dave Gant, Memphis, Tenn., 1922 champion and Mrs. Miriam Burns Horn, Kansas City, champion in 1923.

Other stars of whom much is expected are Mrs. Lee Tida, Miss Virginia Van Wie, and Miss Florence Beebe of Chicago; Mrs. Harry Pressler of San Gabriel, Calif.; Miss Gertrude Boothby, Rochester, Minn.; Mrs. Harley Higbie and Mrs. Stewart Hanley of Detroit, and Miss Bernice Wall of Oshkosh, Wis.

Miss Beebe is the youngest entrant. She is only 16 years old but is considered one of the best women drivers in the country.

BASEBALL'S BIG FIVE

Ty Cobb added seven points to his batting average by hitting safely four times out of five attempts. One of the blows went for a double.

Hornsby's eighteenth home run of the season was his only hit in four chances, but it came with the bases filled and put the Giants in position to overcome a six run Brooklyn lead for victory.

Ruth, Gehrig and Speaker were idle.

Averages:

	AB	R	H	Pct.
Cehrig	421	162	385	38
Speaker	384	140	362	31
Ruth	380	137	360	26
Cobb	360	123	341	5
Hornsby	407	139	341	18

VERNON ALLEN NOW MINNESOTA JUNIOR GOLF CHAMP

Minneapolis, Aug. 13.—(UP)—Vernon Allen, sorrel-topped Minneapolis youth, Minnesota junior golf champion, today was receiving the plaudits of friends following the victory that gave him the title Friday.

Allen defeated Edgar Bolstad of St. Paul 3 and 1 in a 36 hole final match of the state tournament at Hilltop golf course here. By virtue of his ability to score birdies and par almost at will, Allen snatched the victory from Bolstad who was leading 1 up on the home stretch.

YANKEE TENNIS CASE OF "SINGLE BLESSEDNESS"

TWO SINGLE MATCHES OF INTERNATIONAL SERIES WALK-AWAY FOR U. S.

HELEN WILLS QUICKLY DISPOSES OF COMPETITOR JOAN FRY

By MARY K. BROWNE
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
(Copyright 1927 by United Press)

Forest Hills, Aug. 13.—American tennis, at least, seems to be a case of "single blessedness" while the English brand appears to work better in double harness. The two single matches of the international series played at Forest Hills yesterday turned out to be a walkaway for the Americans. Helen Wills took less than thirty minutes to dispose of Joan Fry and Mrs. Molla Mallory only a little longer to defeat Mrs. Kitty McKane Godfree.

The second English doubles team, however, scored the only victory for England and kept their team in the running. The doubles victory gives Great Britain an outside chance of winning the series, by taking all but one of the four matches on today's schedule.

Scarcely anyone would give a nickel for Mrs. Godfree's chances against Helen Wills, so that means that Betty Nuthall must defeat Helen Jacobs, Joan Fry must beat Mrs. Mallory and then Mrs. Godfree and Miss Harvey must triumph over Mrs. Wightman and Helen Wills.

There were a few who felt that Joan Fry did not play well against Helen Wills, but it was my opinion that Helen never gave Joan a chance to play aggressively. Helen kept her forever on the defensive and scrambling desperately. The American girl served with speed and a decided cut far to the outside service line, both types of services forced defensive shots from Miss Fry. Then Helen either sent stinging back hand or fore arm drives sizzling to the vital parts of Miss Fry's territory. The best English girl could do was to scramble sometimes succeeding in returning them ineffectively but more often she was unable to reach the shot. Joan Fry is strong, fast and a wonderful retriever, but she was helpless in the face of Helen's perfect stroking, varied with drives cross court followed by a deep return to the back line. The combination was effective. Helen never came to the net voluntarily except twice in the last game and she won her point on each occasion.

Mrs. Mallory played beautiful tennis throughout her match with Mrs. Godfree and again justified the committee's implicit faith in Molla as a fighter and a player who takes the best advantage of every opportunity. Mrs. Godfree was far off her usual game, sending many weak returns into the net and many more to the fatal territory at mid-court, where Molla leaps on them savagely and fairly eats them alive. Mrs. Godfree fed Molla with drives to alternate corners instead of slow deep ones to Mrs. Mallory's back court.

The doubles match was the most exciting of the day and while it was a patch work quilt of good and bad tennis, it was nip and tuck from beginning to end with the English trailing most of the way until the last few minutes of play.

TED DREWES TO MEET JENNINGS

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 13.—(UP)—Ted Drewes, defending champion, will meet George J. Jennings, Jr., of Chicago in the finals of the national public parks tennis tournament tomorrow.

Drewes went into the finals by defeating Charles Lejeck of Chicago 2-6, 6-4, 6-4 while Jennings defeated Eddie Jacobs of Baltimore 7-5, 6-3, 6-0.

LIGHT ON THE SUBJECT

CLARA WILKINS wiped the last lamp chimney until it gleamed like something better than just plain blown glass. In its crystal roundness she saw reflected her round, elderly face, very round one way, much too long the other; it all depended on the way she held the chimney.

"I might say," Clara murmured to herself, "that the short way is how I look when I begin my daily tasks in the morning, and the long way is how I look at night when I'm ready for bed and dead tired from my day's work."

She placed the chimney on the freshly filled lamp and set it along-side seven other lamps on the shelf over the old-fashioned wooden kitchen sink. When Clara looked at the sink she sighed, and when she looked at the row of freshly filled and washed lamps she sighed again, which all goes to prove that Clara was not only tired but getting blue as well. To tell the truth, she was tired of washing lamps. She longed for electric lights, but most of all she wanted to have water brought from the big spring to the house. She stood looking down at the old sink and rusty pitcher pump that stood at the end of the sink. She wondered if she wasn't actually beginning to hate that old iron hand pump which had to be primed before it would give forth even a small stream of water. She turned her eyes, resolved to find something pleasant to look at and, alas, her eyes fell upon a big, heavy yellow bowl.

"Oh, that bowl!" Clara fairly moaned. "I have mixed everything I've cooked for thirty years—no, thirty years and two months exactly, in that bowl. Why, that's half a lifetime! I suppose if I could see all the barrels of flour and sugar I've stirred up in that old bowl—and the lamps I've washed, and the water I've pumped from that pesky pitcher pump, why— Oh, well, I mustn't get to figuring or I'll be a fit subject for the asylum, and I was reading only yesterday that the majority of women who are 'put away' are small farmers' wives, just like me. Well, I don't wonder if they do go out of their heads, what with the drudgery and monotony. Surely, washing the same lamps and using the same mixing bowl for 300 months—that would be 10,800— Oh, there I go again! I'll say it's getting on my nerves. I sometimes wonder if Henry had to do the work in this house day after day if he wouldn't see the necessity of having a few conveniences. He has running water in the barn and he buys every new-fangled thing to help him get his work done quicker—easier I should say. Huh! Maybe I'm to blame for not asking for what is rightfully my share of the new-fangled things. Maybe I haven't kept up with the times. I'll ask him about electric lights this very day." And Clara, willing as usual to blame herself for any of Henry's shortcomings, felt almost light-hearted so sure was she that the electric lights would be forthcoming for the asking.

That noon Clara asked Henry. She waited until he had eaten a full meal of corned beef and apple dumplings. "Henry," she said, "what's the matter with our having electric lights put in the house? Since Holsworth's have had 'em put in the wire goes right by our house."

Henry gave a cautious look. He glanced up at the shelf full of gleaming lamps and said with a grin: "Lamps giving out?"

"No, that's one thing that'll never happen," Clara said. "But all the farmers up this brook but us have electric lights."

"Well, can't you let 'em?" Henry answered sourly. "We've got along so far with kerosene lamps and I don't see any use of making a change. I'm satisfied to do all the reading I do by a lamp, that is, what little reading I find time to do. If you didn't fool away so much time puttering round the house you'd get your reading done before dark. I don't see my way clear to spend any money foolishly just now, and anyway, I've been thinking of getting me a car."

"Well," said Clara with more spirit than she had ever shown before, "I wouldn't give a cent for a car, but I would like the lights and the water from the spring piped into the kitchen—"

"There you go again!" Henry interrupted. "First it's lights and then it's water. Why, if I don't curb your foolishness, woman, you'd have me in the poorhouse inside six months. Next thing you'll be wanting a hired girl—"

And Henry left the house muttering to himself.

Cula sat a long time at the table with her chin resting in her cupped hand. She felt a strange sensation of warmth mounting to her head. She didn't realize that it was temper. She had been a good, saving, hard-working wife to Henry for over thirty years and she knew by Henry's frequent boastings to their neighbors that he was putting money away every day. They had no children to leave a cent to. Cula had never asked for anything that was not perfectly reasonable, and she felt she was not doing so now.

Finally, with a sigh, Cula arose from the table and reached for the milk pitcher and butter plate preparatory to taking them down into the cool cellar. That was another thing. Henry never felt the need of an ice house. The spring water which flowed constantly into the big trough in the barn was sufficiently cold to cool the cans of milk. He saw no necessity for a refrigerator, even though it would have saved his wife an endless number of steps. Cula made her way toward the cellar, but she felt suddenly old and shaken; her head ached and her eyes smarted with disappointed tears, so it was no wonder that she missed her footing on the dimly-lighted stairs and landed in a little crumpled heap at the bottom.

Cula broke no bones, but she was so badly shaken up that she had to remain in bed for several days, and while she lay racked with pain she thought long and earnestly about Henry, especially as he was showing himself to be both sympathetic and agreeable.

"Don't you worry about a thing, Cula," he urged. "I'll look after everything. I'd get a hired girl only I think it's going to be real fun puttering round the house. It'll be a nice, restful change for me and give me a chance to get rested before my fall work begins."

Get rested. Puttering around the house and getting rested! Now here was her chance to let Henry have a full lesson in what a woman's work really was like, especially when it was in a kitchen devoid of every convenience. She never winced when she heard a crash and suspected that the yellow mixing bowl had fallen from her husband's clumsy hands. She never mentioned the lamps, and all went well until the oil had burned out of every lamp and the chimneys to Henry's barn lanterns had become so blackened with smoke that he could scarcely find his way by their light to feed his stock. One of the things that made Henry's housework hard was that he used up all the water in the bucket and had to make frequent trips to the barn for water with which to prime the pump. Cula thought she would go wild listening to that rusty squeak-squawk as Henry wrestled with the old pump.

Cula was in bed ten days and her heart yearned over her big, clumsy husband. She noticed whenever he came to bring her a drink or a bite to eat that he had added a rag or bit of sticking plaster to some fresh burn or cut received in his attempts at housework. But he was game and said nothing.

One day Cula felt well enough to be helped to a place on the old couch in the sitting room, and by turning her head she could get a glimpse out into the kitchen. She had to press her hand tightly over her mouth to suppress a scream. Of all the dirty places in the world surely that kitchen was the dirtiest. It spoke mutely of the struggle Henry had had "puttering round," doing housework. Cula was ready to cry, sick and weak as she felt. She wondered if she would ever be able to get all that dirt cleaned out. She wondered if that long row of dirty lamps with their dark brown chimneys could ever be cleaned. Surely the old pump would exact toll of her; and that dirt meant hours of back-breaking work at the handle. She had just turned her face to the wall to indulge in a good cry when Henry came into the room.

"I guess, Cula," he said, shamefacedly, "you won't think I'm much of a housekeeper, but I've done my best. Old Mrs. Grant is coming tonight to stay and help with the work, and Monday the men are coming from town to wire the house and barn for electric lights. Tomorrow the plumbers will connect the water up in the kitchen and—"

But the tears that had been gathering began to spill over and run down Cula's cheeks. At the sight of them Henry fled.

"Plague it all," Cula heard him mumble as he fled. "I can't stand tears now. But, by cracky, that ain't all I'm going to do for her—no, not half. For my Cula's one woman in a thousand."

Americans On Papal Council For Near East Welfare Work

Pope Pius XI has just established an International Council to guide Catholic welfare work for Russia and the Near East under his personal direction. The above shows a special meeting of the Council at the Vatican. The Counselors sitting left to right are: Monsignor Borghini-Duca, Assistant Secretary of State to Pope Pius; Bishop Isidoro Papadopoulos, Assessor of the Pontifical Congregation for the Orient; Cardinal Luigi Sincero, Chairman of the Pontifical Commission for Russia; Bishop Michel D'Herbigny, President of the Pontifical Institute for Oriental Studies; and Monsignor Giuseppe Pizzardo, Assistant Secretary of State at the Vatican. Standing, left to right are: Joseph F. Moore, Secretary-General and Executive Director of the Catholic Near East Welfare Association, and the Rev. Edmund A. Walsh, S. J., President of the Association in America and former Representative of the Holy See in Russia.

The relief and welfare program for the Near East which a million American Catholics have made possible through raising a fund of $1,000,000 is being initiated immediately. According to Joseph F. Moore, Secretary-General of the Catholic Near East Welfare Association, who has just returned from Rome, Pope Pius XI has established and heads a new International Council which has drawn up and approved a program and budget calling for the expenditure of $300,000 on immediate measures of relief for the Near East, Russia and the Orient.

In sending his first message to the Association, Pope Pius expressed his particular gratitude to American Catholics for their recent demonstration of devotion to the Holy See in answer to his appeal. The pontifical document containing the message and signed by the Pope himself has been entrusted to the President of the Association, the Rev. Edmund A. Walsh, S. J., who has just returned from Europe. A million copies are now being prepared and, at the personal request of Pope Pius, a copy will be sent directly to each member of the Association.

It was at the behest of Pope Pius that the Catholic Near East Welfare Association was formed through a merger of all Catholic agencies conducting social and relief work in aid of the Near East. One million members were enrolled and $1,000,000 contributed in one day during the campaign. Cardinals O'Connell, Dougherty and Hayes are members of the Board of Directors.

The report of the activities of the Association and of the success of the recent appeal was made to Pope Pius by Father Walsh, President of the organization. Father Walsh is Vice President of Georgetown University and was former Director General of the Papal Relief Mission to Russia.

In addition to the relief program, the counselors also devoted part of the present budget to maintaining the new Pontifical Oriental Institute in Rome which will be a center of Slavic learning and provide Catholic and Orthodox students from Eastern lands with facilities for advanced studies.

The Catholic Near East Welfare Association will now have European offices in Rome at the Oriental Institute. The American headquarters are located at No. 489 Lexington Avenue, New York City, where the membership to date has been completely tabulated and where additional members are being enrolled daily.

Mr. Moore was received in special audience by Pope Pius and presented with an individual medal bearing the Papal coat of arms. Father Walsh returns from a first hand investigation of conditions in the Near East, paying particular attention to the educational phase of the welfare program which will probably get under way this fall when young Russian men and women will be brought to this country to obtain the education denied them at home as a result of war and famine. American colleges and academies so far have provided 117 scholarships for this purpose.

Orchid Lane Wrap Is Richly Furred, Draped

The summer season ushers in a particularly gorgeous array of evening wraps. From the warm-thriving velvets, rich in embroidery, in bead and paillette to the lightest of chiffons, the mode is varied and extremely beautiful. Dorothy Mackaill, motion picture actress, who wears many charming gowns and wraps in the film "The Road to Romance," has selected a particularly pleasing wrap of orchid lane richly furred and draped into smart lines.

Homely Girl Benefits by New Sports Clothes

The homely girl will benefit this summer from the increasing popularity of sports clothes. Fashion designers, both at home and abroad, are concentrating on this department of their work, and the result of the efforts is hailed by Hazel Rawson Cades in the Woman's Home Companion as the most pleasing and useful development in years of fashion history.

"Sports clothes are the great equalizers of beauty," says Miss Cades. "Heretofore many girls whose looks started being spoiled by bonnet ruffles have gone on being impeded by one feminine thing after another all their lives. But now Marguerite of the big blue eyes and the bobbing curls no longer has an advantage over Jeanie of the round head and freckled nose. There are compensations in sports clothes which help even things up.

"However, there are many things to remember if these costumes are to be given the proper air. Above all things, they should be simple, unaffected and easy fitting, not too harshly masculine and never too fluffy. English sports clothes have never offended by being too fancy, but are occasionally somewhat stiff and trying for the average woman. The French are apt to sacrifice utility to chic, which is rather a mistake, for if they are to be convincing, they should look useful whether or not they are really ever put to the test.

"Simplicity of type does not permit carelessness about accessories. To the contrary, assembling a sports costume is a ticklish business. Anything fancy added pretty near ruins it. It's like trying to introduce finger bowls at a picnic."

English Villages With Only One Inhabitant

The English village is very dear to the hearts of poets and painters and thousands of the communities are charming. A few, however, says the Washington Star, are more amusing than anything else, as, for instance, the one which consists entirely of old railway "carriages," as the English call them, even the chapel being composed of "four horse trucks." Another village, with a population of 1,100 and taxed at a valuation of $3,000, has neither school, church nor other public building, the only thing of the sort being a letter box on a pillar.

Villages with but a single inhabitant are not unknown, one of them being Skiddaw, in Cumberland. The single villager complains bitterly because he cannot vote, there being no overseer to prepare a voters' list and no church or other public building on which to publish one, as the law requires. The lonely taxpayer in a Northumberland village has declined to contribute money to maintain the roads on the ground that the one he has is quite sufficient for his needs. In the Isle of Ely is a little parish with about a dozen inhabitants, which has no taxes, since there are no roads or public institutions of any kind and consequently no expenses.

Sometimes an English village will entirely disappear, having been built either on the edge of the crumbling cliff that make part of the coastline, or over an ancient mine. One of the latter class is in Shropshire and each year cottages tumble as the earth sinks.

Belts and Decorative Scarfs in Limelight

Belts continue to be of interest, especially when they are in themselves worthy. The belt does not match, but on the contrary contributes something of color to the costume. An innovation in the matter of belts has been achieved by using a wide plaid taffeta ribbon bowed at the side on a pastel sports frock of two-piece genre, the skirt in sectional plaits and the over-bow cut with a V neckline.

The status of the decorative silk scarf has been somewhat affected by the return to favor of the animal scarf. One will be glad to lay aside a fox scarf for a smart silken scarf not only because of greater comfort in warm weather, but because the animal scarf is not appropriate with a sports costume. It belongs with the tailored suit for town wear with dresses of certain types.

Boyish Fashions Are Copied by London Girls

Girls will be boys again, it seems, this summer. At least young English girls will if any forecast can be made from the women, ranging from royalty down to scrubwomen of all ages, who have been attending the London fashion shows. Even the ordinary department stores now have mannequin shows.

Princess Helena Victoria, the aunt of King George, has been one of the most regular attendants at displays made by prominent houses.

Gray flannel will be worn again for sports and outing suits, and shirts with long sleeves, very much like those worn by men, will be used by women, it is indicated, instead of more ornate jumpers.

HOW

COLLECTION OF WRITINGS BECAME PRESENT BIBLE.
The story of how the Bible grew to its present form was recently told in an address given at Washington by Dr. E. A. Lowe, lecturer, Oxford university. Doctor Lowe, who is also a member of the staff of research workers of the Carnegie Institution of Washington, under whose auspices the lecture was given, speaks with authority on this matter, for he has devoted many years to the study of the ancient texts and versions of the Bible. says a bulletin issued by the Carnegie Institution of Washington.

Doctor Lowe called attention to the fact that the Bible is not a single book, but a collection of books, and that for a thousand years or more the Hebrews handed on their holy teachings first orally then in writing. The Laws came first (about 450 B. C.), then the Prophets (about 350 B. C.), then the Writings (about 150 B. C.), as the other books of the Bible are called. In the Third century before our era the Hebrew books were rendered into Greek at Alexandria. This is the version of the Old Testament called the Septuagint because of the tradition that 72 translators collaborated in its production.

The books of the New Testament came into existence gradually and incidentally without any intention of forming a new Covenant, according to Doctor Lowe. He added: "For the earliest period of Christianity the Jewish Scriptures sufficed. But the fear that the words of Jesus would be distorted and that his message might be altered or corrupted by oral transmission called into existence the written word."

How to Plant Rosebush to Get Proper Results

To plant a rosebush dig a hole 3 feet deep and fill it with loam prepared in the following way: 1-3 part sand, 1-3 part common loam, and 1-3 manure. Put in a layer of the loam, then a layer of small rocks, and another layer of loam. Before putting the bush in straighten out the roots and prune off any that are broken or bruised. Right in the center is the taproot which must be supported in the hole by a mound of earth so that the crown of the plant will come just above the level of the ground when the plant is set. Straighten out the roots around the mound and put in enough loam to hold them in place. Then fill the hole with water several times and allow it to soak away until the plant is washed quite firmly into the earth. Then fill the hole with loam and stamp it down as the filling proceeds. Lastly, prune it off within 6 inches of the ground.

LIGHT ON THE SUBJECT

(© by D. J. Walsh.)
CULA WILKINS wiped the last lamp chimney until it gleamed like something better than that plain blown glass. In its crystal roundness she saw reflected her round, elderly face, very round one way, much too long the other; it all depended on the way she held the chimney.

"I might say," Cula murmured to herself, "that the short way is how I look when I begin my daily tasks in the morning, and the long way is how I look at night when I'm ready for bed and dead tired from my day's work." She placed the chimney on the freshly filled lamp and set it alongside seven other lamps on the shelf over the old-fashioned wooden kitchen sink. When Cula looked at the sink she sighed, and when she looked at the row of freshly filled and washed lamps she sighed again, which all goes to prove that Cula was not only tired but getting blue as well. To tell the truth, she was tired of washing lamps. She longed for electric lights, but most of all she wanted to have water brought from the big spring to the house. She stood looking down at the old sink and rusty pitcher pump that stood at the end of the sink. She wondered if she wasn't actually beginning to hate that old iron hand pump which had to be primed before it would give forth even a small stream of water. She turned her eyes, resolved to find something pleasant to look at and, alas, her eyes fell upon a big, heavy yellow bowl.

"Oh, that bowl!" Cula fairly moaned, "I have mixed everything I've cooked for thirty years—no, thirty years and two months exactly, in that bowl. Why, that's half a lifetime! I suppose if I could see all the barrels of flour and sugar I've stirred up in that old bowl!—and the lamps I've washed, and the water I've pumped from that pesky pitcher pump, why— Oh, well, I mustn't get to figuring or I'll be a fit subject for the asylum, and I was reading only yesterday that the majority of women who are 'put away' are small farmers' wives, just like me. Well, I don't wonder if they do go out of their heads, what with the drudgery and monotony. Surely, washing the same lamps and using the same mixing bowl for 330 months—that would be 10,800— Oh, there I go again! I'll say it's getting on my nerves. I sometimes wonder if Henry had to do the work in this house day after day if he wouldn't see the necessity of having a few conveniences. He has running water in the barn and he buys every new-fangled thing to help him get his work done quicker—easier I should say. Huh! Maybe I'm to blame for not asking for what is rightfully my share of the new-fangled things. Maybe I haven't kept up with the times. I'll ask him about electric lights this very day." And Cula, willing as usual to blame herself for any of Henry's shortcomings, felt almost light-hearted so sure was she that the electric lights would be forthcoming for the asking.

That noon Cula asked Henry. She waited until he had eaten a full meal of corned beef and apple dumplings. "Henry," she said, "what's the matter with our having electric lights put in the house? Since Holsworth's have had 'em put in the wire goes right up our house."

Henry gave a cautious look. He glanced up at the shelf full of gleaming lamps and said with a grin: "Lamps giving out?"

"No, that's one thing that'll never happen," Cula said. "But all the farmers up this brook but us have electric lights."

"Well, can't you let 'em?" Henry answered sourly. "We've got along so far with kerosene lamps and I don't see any use of making a change. I'm satisfied to do all the reading I do by a lamp, that is, what little reading I find time to do. If you didn't fool away so much time puttering round the house you'd get your reading done before dark. I don't see why you clear to spend any money foolishly just now, and anyway, I've been thinking of getting me a car—"

"Well," said Cula with more spirit than she had ever shown before, "I wouldn't give a cent for a car, but I would like the lights and the water from the spring piped into the kitchen—"

"There you go again!" Henry interrupted. "First it's lights and then it's water. Why, if I don't curb your foolishness, woman, you'll have me in the poorhouse inside six months. Next thing you'll be wanting a hired girl!" And Henry left the house muttering to himself.

Cula sat a long time at the table with her chin resting in her cupped hand. She felt a strange sensation of warmth mounting to her head. She didn't realize that it was temper. She had been a good, saving, hard-working wife to Henry for over thirty years and she knew by Henry's frequent boastings to their neighbors that he was putting money away every day. They had no children to leave a cent to. Cula had never asked for anything that was not perfectly reasonable, and she felt she was not doing so now.

Finally, with a sigh, Cula arose from the table and reached for the milk pitcher and butter plate preparatory to taking them down into the cool cellar.

That was another thing. Henry never felt the need of, an ice house. The spring water which flowed constantly into the big trough in the barn was sufficiently cold to cool the cans of milk. He saw no necessity for a refrigerator, even though it would have saved his wife an endless number of steps. Cula made her way toward the cellar, but she felt suddenly old and shaken; her head ached and her eyes smarted with disappointed tears, so it was no wonder that she missed her footing on the dimly-lighted stairs and landed in a little crumpled heap at the bottom.

Cula broke no bones, but she was so badly shaken up that she had to remain in bed for several days, and while she lay racked with pain she thought long and earnestly about Henry, especially as he was showing himself to be both sympathetic and agreeable.

"Don't you worry about a thing, Cula," he urged. "I'll look after everything. I'd get a hired girl only I think it's going to be real fun puttering round the house. It'll be a nice, restful change for me and give me a chance to get rested before my fall work begins."

Get rested. Puttering around the house and getting rested! Now here was her chance to let Henry have a full lesson in what a woman's work really was like, especially when it was in a kitchen devoid of every convenience. She never winced when she heard a crash and suspected that the yellow mixing bowl had fallen from her husband's clumsy hands. She never mentioned the lamps, and all went well until the oil had burned out of every lamp and the chimneys to Henry's barn lanterns had become so blackened with smoke that he could scarcely find his way by their light to feed his stock. One of the things that made Henry's housework hard was that he used up all the water in the bucket and had to make frequent trips to the barn for water with which to prime the pump. Cula thought she would go wild listening to that rusty squeak-squawk as Henry wrestled with the old pump.

Cula was in bed ten days and her heart yearned over her big, clumsy husband. She noticed whenever he came to bring her a drink or a bite to eat that he had added a rag or bit of sticking plaster to some fresh burn or cut received in his attempts at housework. But he was game and said nothing.

One day Cula felt well enough to be helped to a place on the old couch in the sitting room, and by turning her head she could get a glimpse out into the kitchen. She had to press her hand tightly over her mouth to suppress a scream. Of all the dirty places in the world surely that kitchen was the dirtiest. It spoke mutely of the struggle Henry had had "puttering round," doing housework. Cula was ready to cry, sick and weak as she felt. She wondered if she would ever be able to get all that dirt cleaned out. She wondered if that long row of dirty lamps with their dark brown chimneys could ever be cleaned. Surely the old pump would exact toll of her; and that dirt meant hours of back-breaking work at the handle. She had just turned her face to the wall to indulge in a good cry when Henry came into the room.

"I guess, Cula," he said, shamefacedly, "you won't think I'm much of a housekeeper, but I've done my best. Old Mrs. Grant is coming tonight to stay and help with the work, and Monday the men are coming from town to wire the house and barn for electric lights. Tomorrow the plumbers will connect the water up in the kitchen and—"

But the tears that had been gathering began to spill over and run down Cula's cheeks. At the sight of them Henry fled.

"Plague it all," Cula heard him mumble as he fled. "I can't stand tears now. But, by cracky, that ain't all I'm going to do for her—no, not half, for my Cula's one woman in a thousand."

Americans On Papal Council For Near East Welfare Work

Pope Pius XI has just established an International Council to guide Catholic welfare work for Russia and the Near East under his personal direction. The above shows a special meeting of the Council at the Vatican. The Counsellors sitting left to right are: Monsignor Borgognini-Duca, Assistant Secretary of State to Pope Pius; Bishop Isidoro Papadopoulos, Assessor of the Pontifical Congregation for the Orient; Cardinal Luigi Sincero, Chairman of the Pontifical Commission for Russia; Bishop Michel D'Herbigny, President of the Pontifical Institute for Oriental Studies; and Monsignor Giuseppe Pizzardo, Assistant Secretary of State at the Vatican. Standing, left to right are: Joseph F. Moore, Secretary-General and Executive Director of the Catholic Near East Welfare Association, and the Rev. Edmund A. Walsh, S. J., President of the Association in America and former Representative of the Holy See in Russia.

The relief and welfare program for the Near East which a million American Catholics have made possible through raising a fund of $1,000,000 is being initiated immediately. According to Joseph F. Moore, Secretary-General of the Catholic Near East Welfare Association, who has just returned from Rome, Pope Pius XI has established and heads a new International Council which has drawn up and approved a program and budget calling for the expenditure of $300,000 on immediate measures of relief for the Near East, Russia and the Orient.

In sending his first message to the Association, Pope Pius expressed his particular gratitude to American Catholics for their recent demonstration of devotion to the Holy See in answer to his appeal. The pontifical document containing the message and signed by the Pope himself has been entrusted to the President of the Association, the Rev. Edmund A. Walsh, S. J., who has just returned from Europe. A million copies are now being prepared and, at the personal request of Pope Pius, a copy will be sent directly to each member of the Association.

It was at the behest of Pope Pius that the Catholic Near East Welfare Association was formed through a merger of all Catholic agencies conducting social and relief work in aid of the Near East. One million members were enrolled and $1,000,000 contributed in one day during the campaign. Cardinals O'Connell, Dougherty and Hayes are members of the Board of Directors.

The report of the activities of the Association and of the success of the recent appeal was made to Pope Pius by Father Walsh, President of the organization. Father Walsh is Vice President of Georgetown University and was former Director General of the Papal Relief Mission to Russia.

In addition to the relief program, the counsellors also devoted part of the present budget to maintaining the new Pontifical Oriental Institute in Rome which will be a center of Slavic learning and provide Catholic and Orthodox students from Eastern lands with facilities for advanced studies.

The Catholic Near East Welfare Association will now have European offices in Rome at the Oriental Institute. The American headquarters are located at No. 480 Lexington Avenue, New York City, where the membership to date has been completely tabulated and where additional members are being enrolled daily.

Mr. Moore was received in special audience by Pope Pius and presented with an individual medal bearing the Papal coat of arms. Father Walsh returns from a first hand investigation of conditions in the Near East, paying particular attention to the educational phase of the welfare program which will probably get under way this fall when young Russian men and women will be brought to this country to obtain the education denied them at home as a result of war and famine. American colleges and academies so far have provided 117 scholarships for this purpose.

Orchid Lane Wrap Is Richly Furred, Draped

The summer season ushers in a particularly gorgeous array of evening wraps. From the warmth-giving velvets, rich in embroidery, in bead and paillette to the lightest of chiffons, the mode is varied and extremely beautiful. Dorothy Mackaill, motion picture actress, who wears many charming gowns and wraps in the film "The Road to Romance," has selected a particularly pleasing wrap of orchid lane richly furred and draped into smart lines.

HOTEL MANAGER IS FOUND DEAD

Rufus B. Sigler of Midland Hotel
Passed Away While Sleeping
Early Today

VETERAN OF TWO WARS

Had Leased Hotel for Six Months
From William Tauer Who Lost
Life in Lake

Rufus B. Sigler, manager of the Midland Hotel, was found dead in bed at 6 o'clock this morning by the housekeeper. He was last heard walking early this morning at 3 o'clock. Death is attributed to heart failure.

Mr. Sigler leased the hotel on June 22 from the late William Tauer who gave his life in an attempt to rescue a Twin City fishing party which resulted in the drowning of six in Mille Lacs Lake when waves swamped the boats. The lease was taken out for a period of six months.

The hotel manager had recently returned from a hospital in St. Paul. Honorable discharge papers from the war department highly recommended the man for his services in the Spanish American War and the World war.

B. C. McNamara, undertaker, today wired the War Department for particulars as to relatives. Mr. Sigler is 52 years old and formerly lived at Luverne, Minn. He was single.

Funeral arrangements have not been completed yet.

Difference Between 'Ranch' and 'Rawrch' Discovered by Wale

Calgary, Alta., Aug. 13.—(UP)—The difference between a "ranch" and a "rawrch" has been discovered by the Prince of Wales, his royal highness confessed to a crowd, which gathered to honor Premier Stanley Baldwin of England.

"It is a delight for me to come down here from my 'rawrch'," the prince said. "Perhaps I should say 'ranch.' I am told that the difference between the two is that a 'ranch' pays, and a 'rawrch' does not, but I am not going to say just which sort of a place mine is."

SISTER OF VANZETTI SAILS FOR AMERICA

Cherbourg, France, Aug. 13.—(UP)—Luigia Vanzetti sailed for the United States today aboard the S. S. Aquitania, her "despair changed to absolute confidence" that her brother and Nicola Sacco will escape the electric chair in Charleston prison.

"Since the respite has been granted," said the condemned man's sister, "I am certain that I shall be able to kiss my brother again and also that I will see his innocence and Sacco's established. I wish to thank their sympathizers for the worldwide efforts in their behalf."

Miss Vanzetti had expected to sail last week but difficulties with her visa compelled her to postpone the sailing. She came here from Vanzetti's home in Italy.

FEDERAL RADIO COMMISSION IN DECISIONS

Washington, Aug. 13.—(UP)—The Federal Radio commission today announced the following decisions:

Plan Under Way to Reproduce Likeness of Late Judge Stanton in Oil Painting

A splendid likeness of Judge C. B. Sleeper, first jurist in the Fifteenth Judicial District in wall portrait size has been donated to the Crow Wing County Bar Association by John L. Smith, of Minneapolis, through the worthy efforts of M. E. Ryan, president of the Bar Association who wrote Mr. Smith of the Association's earnest desire to secure portraits of notable jurists of the district.

With appropriate ceremonies the picture will be hung in the court house at the opening of district court in November.

Judge Sleeper held the first term of court here on November 19, 1887 shortly after the district was separated from the Eleventh District. He served as judge for about one and a half years and was later defeated in the election by the late Judge Holand.

The picture is now in the office of W. A. M. Johnstone, clerk of the district court.

The Association hopes to secure a suitable picture of the late Judge C. W. Stanton for reproduction in an oil painting. Mayne Stanton, son of the late judge is expected here next week with the picture.

U. C. T. DANCE, AUGUST 18

Musical Pirates, Colored Orchestra to Appear at Lum Park
Pavilion

Possibly the last U. C. T. dance of the summer season will be given at Lum Park on Thursday, Aug. 18 when "Doc," Jelly Roll, Jones and his musical pirates will furnish their hottest tunes.

This orchestra is one of the warmest colored orchestras touring. They are scheduled on the M. C. A. circuit, coming from Winona and here they will go to Fargo. Orchestras playing under the Musical Corporation of America banner are known for their splendid dance music. Local people will remember the fine music given by Zez Confrey and his orchestra who were playing under the management of the M. C. A.

The Musical Pirates have made a great hit wherever they played. If the music is pleasing to the public a return engagement may be booked. Owing to the cost of the orchestra a straight admission will be charged with dancing from 9 p. m. to 12:30 a. m. Ladies without an escort will not be admitted.

A new "rider of the rods" has come to take the place of the old time "bo" who stole rides on trains, carried guns, had no money, and was "tough."

Special officers of railways report a new type of man riding the rails via the box car route there days. This man is gentlemanly, is not armed, and carries money so that if caught can pay his way on passenger trains to his destination.

Last night Special N. P. Officer Jacobson went to Little Falls where with Special Officer Friesinger, of Little Falls "rooted" out 90 men riding a freight train of 125 box cars. Seventy of the men bought railway tickets out west while the remaining 20 preferred taking the highway.

In Brainerd yesterday morning 24 men were taken off a freight train. Fourteen paid fares and 10 were shown the highway. This morning 12 men were taken from a freight train in Brainerd, six paying fares and the remaining hiking the road.

Only two revolvers were found on the persons of the 136 caught stealing rides. These were confiscated.

Two negroes caught riding a freight train this morning on being asked if they had any money produced $400 in travelling checks. The men are on their way to work in the harvest fields.

INTERIM COMMISSION SEEKS DATA ON REFORESTATION

Cass Lake, Minn., Aug. 13.—Following a tour of Itasca Park, with visits to original stands of timber and reproduction areas, members of the interim committee, who are studying the Minnesota forestry problem, will arrive here tonight. They are on a nine-day inspection of timber tracts, cut-over regions, paper and saw mills and reforestation operations in northern Minnesota.

The committee witnessed a fire fighting demonstration by state forest rangers before lunching at Bemidji. They inspected the university student headquarters, nursery and plantation plots during their visit in and near Bemidji.

The group will spend tonight and Sunday in Cass Lake, with visits on Sunday scheduled to the federal reserve which contains 200,000 acres.

SOLVING OF ST. PAUL'S LATEST MURDERS HALTS

St. Paul, Minn., Aug. 13.—(UP)—Solving of St. Paul's latest murders—that of two women found dead in a beautifully furnished home of an exclusive residential district—was at an impasse today.

Although one of the men who were being hunted by police has surrendered it has only tended to increase the mystery surrounding the multiple murder which occurred shortly after noon last Thursday.

John Kooser, husband of one of the victims, walked into the police station here and offered to aid in efforts to unravel the mystery, late Friday. Police were satisfied that he was in Detroit Lakes, Minn., at the time of the murders and he was released.

The husband of Mrs. Ruth Barrett the second victim, is the person police believe can clear up the case. James Barrett, alias O'Brien, has been missing for about a week.

Mrs. Lillian Kooser and Mrs. Ruth Barrett were found shot to death in the bedroom of the latter's home. The only clues found were letters of identification.

SEETHING ARGUMENT AT Mc GEHEE

ALL UPSET AND DIVIDED AS TO CITIZENS' OPINIONS OF BATTLE

6 FOOT RATTLER AND 4 FOOT
KING SNAKE FIGHT, QUES-TION OF FOUL RAISED

McGehee, Ark., Aug. 13.—(UP)—This little town is a place of seething, milling, arguing humanity. No since the famous earthquake that rocked the tri-states and formed Reelfoot lake in 1811 has it been so upset, and not since Einstein came out with his theory of relativity has it been so divided in its opinions.

The thing that has caused all of the argument and turned brother against brother and uncle against aunt is the snake fight waged here under a blistering sun in a vacant lot on Main street. A six-foot rattler and a four-foot king snake met to settle once and for all the much discussed question of supremacy.

But instead of settling the matter, they have only caused the question to break out in violent form.

The king snake was counted out after 15 minutes of torrid battling, but his supporters immediately set up a howl of "foul."

"I am convinced that the blow which ended the fight was a foul," declared R. E. Reitzmeyer, billed ball magnate and promoter of the fight. "It was undoubtedly below the waist."

That, in turn, has caused more argument. Encyclopedias are being consulted in an effort to find out just where a snake's hips begin.

The rattler was the first to enter the ring. The king snake scowled at the rattler. A severe punch in his stomach angered him, and the fight was on.

The king snake struck a vicious blow to the rattler's button. But the rattler did not fall off. The rattler backed up a post and coiled one from the floor. It was a clean hook, landing with emphasis just behind the king snake's left ear. It knocked the challenger off his stomach and he rolled over. Reitzmeyer counted nine.

The king snake maneuvered for several seconds waiting for his brain to clear. The rattler brought up another vicious jab. The referee tolled off ten.

The gallant loser isn't dead, but he doesn't feel very well. His backers declare that they still will place money on him if given a return bout in a larger ring.

WILD BILL HICKOCK TO BE DEPICTED IN HIS TRUE LIGHT

Topeka, Kans., Aug. 13.—(UP)—Wild Bill Hickock, plainsman and Indian fighter of frontier days, is to be depicted "In His True Light" in a book to be written by W. E. Connelly, secretary of the Kansas Historical society. Connelly joined the battle raging around the name of the famous fighter and announced his book would be ready for publication in a short time.

The uproar raging in several circles of Kansas and Nebraska started when the Nebraska Historical society issued a pamphlet declaring Wild Bill to be a killer of innocent men and a bit of a coward. Indignation flared, friends and relatives of Hickock declaring the allegations untrue and asserting the plainsman waged war on evil-doers and the "bad men" of the frontier days.

Howard Hickock, Council Bluffs, Ia., and a nephew of the Indian fighter, arrived here yesterday to confer with Connelly on the subject. It is understood he plans legal action to clear his uncle's name.

Connelly says he has been gathering facts about Hickock for many years and that he will refute "many of the lies about him with actual proofs."

MOTHER WOUNDED BY HER 3 YEAR OLD SON, KILLING SELF

Minnetonka, Minn., Aug. 13.—(UP)—Wounded by her 3-year-old son who killed himself with a revolver, Mrs. Otto Sigurdson was recovering today at her home near here from the effects of a slight flesh wound.

While the mother and her son, Otto, Jr., were lying on a bed late Friday the boy pulled a revolver from a holster and accidentally discharged it, the bullet piercing his abdomen and wounding Mrs. Sigurdson. The boy died thirty minutes later.

WAVE OF SELLING SWEEPS OVER THE STOCK EXCHANGE

NEW YORK TRADERS WONDER
WHEN LIMIT WILL BE REACHED

FLOODS ONE MEMBER BROKER-AGE HOUSE INTO SUS-PENSION

New York, Aug. 13.—(UP)—The wave of selling which has swept over the stock exchange, flooding one member brokerage house into suspension, left traders wondering today whether the limit had yet been reached.

Should nervous speculators decide to cash in on the paper profits recently rises in the market have built for them, further declines would be unavoidable.

And if the exchange, investigating transactions in stocks which have been inexplicably volatile, should find alarming conditions, a descent to new low prices for the year would come in many issues.

But optimistic observers insisted that business conditions throughout the country tended to support a bull market and that latest developments were temporary.

Transactions on the exchange yesterday totaled 2,938,750 shares, the heaviest since March 30, 1926, when the sales aggregated 3,297,901 shares.

Stocks dropped from 1 to 15 points generally and in isolated instances even more. Bonds with convertible features which had advanced in sympathy with an upward swing of stock prices also broke sharply.

Meanwhile the drop of more than 60 points of Manhattan Electrical Supply on Thursday continued to hold the center of interest. The break in shares of the supply company's stock carried under the firm of A. L. Fuller & Co., which was placed in the hands of the receivers and suspended business.

Attorney General Ottinger ordered an investigation into the market operations of Manhattan Electrical. Subpoenas were issued for several persons believed to be involved in manipulation of the stocks.

At the same time the stock exchange took under observation the transactions in other stocks believed to have attracted the same interest, which dealt in Manhattan Electrical.

George A. Carden, probably the largest stockholder, was forced partially to capitulate to the bears and sell some of his holdings after he had lost nearly $4,000,000 in paper profits by the extreme decline in the stock.

Gladys McConnell, Yakima Canutt, Robert Kortman and others appear in the human cast.

GERMAN GIRL AVIATOR AND MECHANIC FALL

HER FLAMINGO BIPLANE DROPS INTO THE HUDSON RIVER

ACCIDENT OCCURS NEAR POUGH-KEEPSIE SUSPENSION BRIDGE

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., Aug. 13.—(UP)—Fraulein Thea Rasche and her mechanic fell into the Hudson river Friday when the pretty Flamingo biplane crashed under the new suspension bridge.

Fraulein Rasche and her mechanic Hans Von Krusdner, were rescued, wet but uninjured. The plane, which she brought over with her, sank in several fathoms of water.

Crowds of persons lining the banks and the bridge saw the spectacular finale of her swoop beneath the bridge.

The biplane left Schenectady at noon enroute to Curtiss Field, accompanied by another plane. Reaching Poughkeepsie, Fraulein Rasche circled her city several times and then dropped gracefully with the obvious intention of diving beneath the bridge. Watchers were not sure whether the plane grazed the bridge but the motor suddenly stopped and the plane dropped into the water with a tremendous splash.

It settled rapidly while the girl and her mechanic clambered to the highest parts and boats put out from the nearby Poughkeepsie Yacht club.

RUST CAUSES TOLL IN WHEAT AND OATS THROUGHOUT STATE

PROSPECTS OF SPRING WHEAT
LOWERED 3,012,000 BUSHELS,
STATISTICIAN REPORTS

OATS DOWN 27,933,000 BUSHELS; OPTIMISTIC REPORT ON WINTER WHEAT

St. Paul, Minn., Aug. 13.—(UP)—Black rust in spring wheat and red rust in oats took a heavy toll on farms of Minnesota the last two weeks of July, Paul H. Kirk, agricultural statistician for the Minnesota Department of Agriculture, reported yesterday.

"The weather during the latter part of July was not favorable for the best development of crops in Minnesota," Kirk stated.

"The mild infection of black rust in spring wheat and red rust in oats the first part of July rapidly increased the last two weeks of the month, so that crop prospects for spring wheat are lowered 3,012,000 bushels, and the reduction for oats from July 1 was 27,933,000 bushels," he reported.

Corn, he said, made good growth during the month of July but it was not rapid enough to overcome the increased frost danger on Aug. 1. "Corn was not far enough advanced to call the crop out of frost danger, assuming that a killing frost will come at the average date," Kirk stated.

The statistician was optimistic concerning winter wheat and rye, however, and a favorable yield is looked for in barley, flax and potatoes. Tame hay, he said, is almost normal and pastures are above the average for this time of the year.

The condition of corn on Aug. 1 was reported 67 per cent of normal, forecasting production of only 118,338,000 bushels, about 20 million bushels less than the July 1 forecast.

Wheat condition on Aug. 1 was reported at 71 per cent of normal, about 16 points less due to the ravages of rust. A forecast was made for a crop of 19,650,000 bushels compared with the 1926 crop of 24,588,000 bushels.

The oats crop for Minnesota was forecast by Kirk to yield slightly above the poor crop of last year when the yield was 129,162,000 bushels. Condition on Aug. 1 was 73 per cent of normal, forecasting a crop of 133,402,000 bushels, it was reported.

Durum wheat condition was reported at 79 per cent of normal on Aug. 1 with a forecast of 4,664,000 bushels. Other spring wheat, the report said, indicated condition on Aug. 1 was 69 per cent of normal.

TO SAFEGUARD THE RIGHTS OF AMERICAN CITIZENS

Washington, Aug. 13.—(UP)—To safeguard rights of American citizens, who hereafter may be arrested in Mexico, the United States government has requested that such persons shall not be held incommunicado and that American officials shall be notified in case of arrest.

The request accompanied a formal protest to be presented to the Mexican government by the United States embassy at Mexico City concerning treatment accorded Joseph E. DeCourcy, New York Times correspondent, deported from the southern republic.

The United States government does not deny Mexico's right to order deportation of foreigners, which is authorized by the Mexican constitution, but contends this does not justify arrests without notification and holding of prisoners without privilege of communication.

SEETHING ARGUMENT AT Mc GEHEE

ALL UPSET AND DIVIDED AS 10 CITIZENS' OPINIONS OF BATTLE

6 FOOT RATTLER AND 4 FOOT KING SNAKE FIGHT, QUESTION OF FOUL RAISED

McGehee, Ark., Aug. 13.—(UP)—This little town is a place of seething, milling, arguing humanity. Not since the famous earthquake that rocked the tri-states and formed Reelfoot lake in 1811 has it been so upset, and not since Einstein came out with his theory of relativity has it been so divided in its opinions. The thing that has caused all of the argument and turned brother against brother and uncle against aunt is the snake fight waged here under a blistering sun in a vacant lot on Main street. A six-foot rattler and a four-foot king snake met to settle once and for all the much discussed question of supremacy.

But instead of settling the matter, they have only caused the question to break out in violent form. The king snake was counted out after 15 minutes of torrid battling, but his supporters immediately set up a howl of "foul."

"I am convinced that the blow which ended the fight was a foul," declared R. E. Reitzmeyer, billiard ball magnate and promoter of the fight. "It was undoubtedly below the waist."

That, in turn, has caused more argument. Encyclopedias are being consulted in an effort to find out just where a snake's hips begin.

The rattler was the first to enter the ring. The king snake scowled at the rattler. A severe punch in his stomach angered him, and the fight was on.

The king snake struck a vicious blow to the rattler's button. But the rattler had 16 buttons and his trunk did not fall off. The rattler backed up a post and coiled one from the floor. It was a clean hook, landing with emphasis just behind the king snake's left ear. It knocked the challenger off his stomach and he rolled over. Reitzmeyer counted nine.

The king snake maneuvered for several seconds waiting for his brain to clear. The rattler brought up another vicious jab. The referee tolled off ten.

The gallant loser isn't dead, but he doesn't feel very well. His backers declare that they still will place money on him if given a return bout in a larger ring.

WILD BILL HICKOCK TO BE DEPICTED IN HIS TRUE LIGHT

Topeka, Kans., Aug. 13.—(UP)—Wild Bill Hickok, plainsman and Indian fighter of frontier days, is to be depicted "In His True Light" in a book to be written by W. E. Connelly, secretary of the Kansas Historical society. Connelly joined the battle raging around the name of the famous fighter and announced his book would be ready for publication in a short time.

The uproar raging in several circles of Kansas and Nebraska started when the Nebraska Historical society issued a pamphlet declaring Wild Bill to be a killer of innocent men and a bit of a coward. Indignation flared, friends and relatives of Hickok declaring the allegations untrue and asserting the plainsman waged war on evildoers and the "bad men" of the frontier days.

Howard Hickok, Council Bluffs, Ia., and a nephew of the Indian fighter, arrived here yesterday to confer with Connelly on the subject. It is understood he plans legal action to clear his uncle's name.

Connelly says he has been gathering facts about Hickok for many years and that he will refute "many of the lies about him with actual proofs."

WAVE OF SELLING SWEEPS OVER THE STOCK EXCHANGE

NEW YORK TRADERS WONDER WHEN LIMIT WILL BE REACHED

FLOODS ONE MEMBER BROKERAGE HOUSE INTO SUSPENSION

New York, Aug. 13.—(UP)—The wave of selling which has swept over the stock exchange, flooding one member brokerage house into suspension, left traders wondering today whether the limit had yet been reached.

Should nervous speculators decide to cash in on the paper profits recent rises in the market have built for them, further declines would be unavoidable.

And if the exchange, investigating transactions in stocks which have been inexplicably volatile, should find alarming conditions, a descent to new low prices for the year would come in many issues.

But optimistic observers insisted that business conditions throughout the country tended to support a bull market and that latest developments were temporary.

Transactions on the exchange yesterday totaled 2,938,750 shares, the heaviest since March 30, 1926, when the sales aggregated 3,297,901 shares.

Stocks dropped from 1 to 15 points generally and in isolated instances even more. Bonds with convertible features which had advanced in sympathy with an upward swing of stock prices also broke sharply.

Meanwhile the drop of more than 60 points of Manhattan Electrical Supply on Thursday continued to hold the center of interest. The break in shares of the supply company's stock carried under the firm of A. L. Fuller & Co., which was placed in the hands of the receivers and suspended business.

Attorney General Ottinger ordered an investigation into the market operations of Manhattan Electrical. Subpoenas were issued for several persons believed to be involved in manipulation of the stocks.

RUST CAUSES TOLL IN WHEAT AND OATS THROUGHOUT STATE

PROSPECTS OF SPRING WHEAT LOWERED 3,012,000 BUSHELS, STATISTICIAN REPORTS

OATS DOWN 27,933,000 BUSHELS; OPTIMISTIC REPORT ON WINTER WHEAT

St. Paul, Minn., Aug. 13.—(UP)—Black rust in spring wheat and red rust in oats took a heavy toll on farms of Minnesota the last two weeks of July, Paul H. Kirk, agricultural statistician for the Minnesota Department of Agriculture, reported yesterday.

"The weather during the latter part of July was not favorable for the best development of crops in Minnesota," Kirk stated.

"The mild infection of black rust in spring wheat and red rust in oats the first part of July rapidly increased the last two weeks of the month, so that crop prospects for spring wheat were lowered 3,012,000 bushels, and the reduction for oats from July 1 was 27,933,000 bushels," he reported.

Corn, he said, made good growth during the month of July but it was not rapid enough to overcome the increased frost danger on Aug. 1.

"Corn was not far enough advanced to call the crop out of frost danger, assuming that a killing frost will come at the average date," Kirk stated.

The statistician was optimistic concerning winter wheat and rye, however, and a favorable yield is looked for in barley, flax and potatoes. Tame hay, he said, is almost normal and pastures are above the average for this time of the year.

The condition of corn on Aug. 1 was reported 67 per cent of normal, forecasting production of only 118,338,000 bushels, about 20 million bushels less than the July 1 forecast.

Wheat condition on Aug. 1 was reported at 71 per cent of normal, about 16 points less due to the ravages of rust. A forecast was made for a crop of 19,650,000 bushels compared with the 1926 crop of 24,588,000 bushels.

The oats crop for Minnesota was forecast by Kirk to yield slightly above the poor crop of last year when the yield was 129,162,000 bushels. Condition on Aug. 1 was 73 per cent of normal, forecasting a crop of 133,402,000 bushels, it was reported.

Durum wheat condition was reported at 79 per cent of normal on Aug. 1 with a forecast of 4,664,000 bushels. Other spring wheat, the report said, indicated condition on Aug. 1 was 69 per cent of normal.

TO SAFEGUARD THE RIGHTS OF AMERICAN CITIZENS

Washington, Aug. 13.—(UP)—To safeguard rights of American citizens, who hereafter may be arrested in Mexico, the United States government has requested that such persons shall not be held incommunicado and that American officials shall be notified in case of arrest.

The request accompanied a formal protest to be presented to the Mexican government by the United States embassy at Mexico City concerning treatment accorded Joseph E. DeCourcy, New York Times correspondent deported from the southern republic.

The United States government does not deny Mexico's right to order deportation of foreigners, which is authorized by the Mexican constitution, but contends this does not justify arrests without notification and holding of prisoners without privilege of communication.
